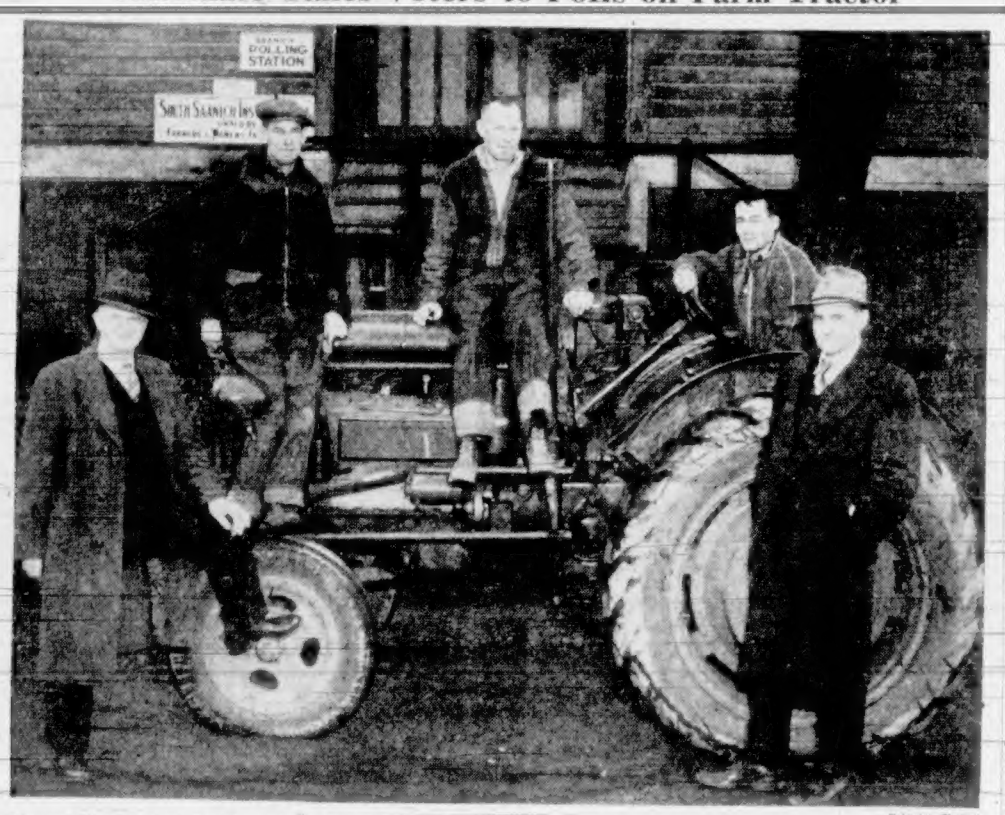
Candidate Takes Voters to Polls on Farm Tractor



—Colonist Photo

Farmer Willard Michell, East Saanich Road, candidate in yesterday's Central Saanich elections, brought one of his farm tractors into use to transport voters to the polls in what he termed a "vote lift." Pictured outside the South Saanich Institute Hall polling station in the farming district are Albert Doney, George Robinson, Howard Robinson, Maurice Michell (driver) and candidate Michell. Mr. Doney, himself a candidate, happened along just as the picture was being taken. Mr. Michell, however, said he willingly would have given his opponent a lift if he had wanted one.

Crusading Sydney Pickles Reeve of Central Saanich

Crusading Sydney Pickles yesterday was elected first reeve of the Municipality of Central Saanich by an electorate apparently showing its gratitude for his efforts in bringing the hard-fought secession movement to a successful conclusion.

The former Great War fighter pilot, test pilot, textile firm executive and sheep farmer romped to victory over his opponent, Percy E. Thorp, former mayor of Grand Prairie, Alberta.

A total of 471 votes was cast for the victor while Mr. Thorp polled 234.

The voters evidently chose to ignore Mr. Thorp's years of experience in municipal affairs, instead electing a man with less experience but with ability to adapt himself to new situations, and as determined a man as ever walked onto an election platform.

The mild-mannered Mr. Thorp was the first to congratulate the new reeve last night in the bustling headquarters of Returning Officer William E. Poupore. The bedlam in the small office only subsided when Deputy Returning Officer Charles Alridge reached for the clanging telephone.

Leading the polls for the council election was youthful Ray Lamont, a fur farmer. His fellow councillors will be Willard Michell, Lorne Thomson and Harold Andrew. Defeated candidate was Albert Doney who lost out by a scant 34 votes. The race for the position of councillor was very tight, only 81 votes separating Mr. Lamont and Mr. Doney, the highest and lowest, respectively.

Considering that about 200 of the 1,065 eligible voters are non-resident, the turnout at the polls can be deemed to be about 85 per cent—a history-making fact in itself.

First meeting of the new council will be at 10 a.m., Tuesday, at Brentwood Women's Institute Hall. The public is invited. Officials of surrounding municipalities are expected to attend. The swearing-in ceremony will be conducted by Bert Hemstreet, J.P., of Saanichton. Second meeting of the council probably will be on Wednesday night.

Reeve Pickles, who is 56 and Australian-born, made this statement last night:

"The sparks and smoke of the election campaign, I feel, will rapidly disappear and I am sure everyone will co-operate with real enthusiasm to make Central Saanich a fine municipality. We are aware we are being watched with great interest."

Reserve Army in Victoria Tragically Undermanned

Allies Hold Line

TOKIO, Jan. 14 (Sunday) (AP).—United Nations troops today clung grimly to the road-controlling Wonju salient in Central Korea. But flanking Reds battled deep into the So-back Mountains to within 65 miles of the old Pusan beachhead.

A series of attacks by 8,000 to 10,000 Korean Reds failed to budge the United States Second Division from its bullet-shaped perimeter that points northward deep into Red-held territory.

A United States Eighth Army communique said the enemy this morning was "either out of contact or contained" along the entire Korean front.

United Nations troops, the communique said, were ranging farther north at certain points than at any time since soon after the evacuation of Seoul. It did not elaborate.

For the second successive night Allied troops withdrew from bloody Hill 247 just south of Wonju after taking the commanding height during daylight.

With the Second Division's American, French and Dutch fighters holding fast two miles south of the transport hub of Wonju, the Reds increased their movement southward over the snow-choked mountains on the Allied east flank.

A spearheading column of 2,000 Communists filtered through the frigid wilderness to a point four miles east of Tanyang—the deepest penetration of United Nations lines since the Red counteroffensive carried across the 38th Parallel two weeks ago today.

City Has Only 580 Men To Defend It in Attack

By TREVOR COLLINS

Reserve Army units in Victoria are so badly under strength that if called on suddenly in an emergency the bulk of their weapons would lie idle for want of soldiers to use them.

This startling fact was disclosed yesterday in a survey of reserve units made by The Colonist following Canadian Legion charges of unpreparedness.

Three thousand men are needed immediately to bring the units up to strength.

There are eight units here, including infantry, artillery, medical, signals, gun operations room and other technical units. Together they would be lucky if they could muster 580 men.

HARD PRESSED

This figure includes cooks, orderly room personnel, technical men, transport drivers and nurses. If an emergency arose suddenly—as is possible these days—Victoria would be tragically hard pressed to defend itself.

But the 47 members of the 13th Field Ambulance would certainly be busy. It should have 200 men.

Even more startling facts were discovered in the 5th B.C. Coast Regiment, R.C.A., which has the important job of manning the three major forts in the Victoria area in the event of a war.

The huge, long-range coastal bombardment guns in the forts that guard the approaches to Victoria—and that cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars—would remain idle.

TWO FOR ONE

The 5th B.C. Coast Regiment, which was previously a heavy anti-aircraft unit, has 16 officers and 40 N.C.O.'s. There are only about 30 gunners—roughly one for every two officers and N.C.O.'s. There should be ten times that number.

Lieut.-Col. G. F. Paulin, officer commanding the unit, deplored his lack of personnel.

"When you break the unit down to fighting men we just haven't got any. If we were called out on active service tomorrow we couldn't do anything," he declared.

He added that the only successful way his unit has found to acquire recruits is by personal contact. "Advertising is useless," he said.

Only two units that have "almost" enough men are the No. 8 A.A. Gun Operations Room and the 40th Technical Squadron. They are made up mostly of technical men or those wishing to learn a trade.

FAR UNDER STRENGTH

The 75th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment, which would battle enemy planes if they attacked this city, is far under strength.

About 126 men of all ranks—including the regimental band—are available to man the regiment's three batteries. There should be about 950.

Even Victoria's own "Fighting First" Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) is sadly under strength. It boasts about 150 officers and men out of an establishment that calls for close to 900. It is the only infantry regiment on Vancouver Island.

But cooks, clerks and officers' mess orderlies are not fighting men in the strict sense of the word. Boil it down and the Scottish would be lucky if it could muster a company.

Officers at the Bay Street Armoury realize the problem they are faced with, but they don't know what else they can do to bolster their sadly depleted ranks.

DISCOURAGED

They are getting discouraged by the lack of response—and so are the N.C.O.'s and men now in the Reserve Army—and they feel the next move is up to the Canadian Government.

"There is only one answer," said Col. Paulin, "and that is some form of compulsory training."

There is plenty of equipment at the Armoury and the various forts in Victoria to train the 3,000 additional troops needed. Thousands of dollars worth of guns and mobile equipment are sitting around idle. Without men it might as well be scrapped for junk.

Of the estimated 580 men in the reserve force, a large number would not be available for active service. The medical category for the reserve is much lower than required by the active force.

BULLETIN

Power Cut

Gale-force winds with gusts up to 55 m.p.h shook Victoria last night, causing about 25 minor power failures in various parts of the city and one major break in the Cadboro Bay area.

B.C. Electric crews expected all power to be restored today.

Two freighters scheduled to dock here last night spent the night at anchor off Royal Roads.

Election Won By Grosskleg

LAKE COWICHAN, Jan. 13.—W. F. Grosskleg won the by-election for one commissioner by a close margin here today when he defeated G. M. Hewlett by only ten votes.

The count was 174-164. There were 16 spoiled ballots.

The $25,000 water-works loan by-law was swept in easily in the plebiscite which required a three-fifths majority.

Official count was 223 for and 105 against.

Municipality Loses Services of Library

Services of the Victoria Public Library will not be available to the new Municipality of Central Saanich until the area frames an agreement with the library board.

The board has a contract with Saanich but secession of the Ward Six area resulted in termination of the library's services at the end of December, according to Miss Margaret Clay, librarian.

MUST ASK

The services will not again be available until a referendum, asking the ratepayers if they want the services, is approved by the voters.

Regret has been expressed by Central Saanich residents that arrangements were not made to place the referendum before the ratepayers at yesterday's elections.

Because this was not done, it will be necessary to present the referendum in the near future at considerable expense.

Saanich residents pay with their taxes $2 a year for the library services. The municipality collects the fee and last year paid more than $19,000 to the library.

This is just one of the many pressing matters that will face members of the first council.

For Emergency Use

Ottawa Sees Introduction Of Standby Control Laws

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, Jan. 13. — Standby legislation authorizing price and wage controls and direction of manpower movements may be introduced for enactment during the coming session of Parliament, it was reported in highest official sources tonight.

But the legislation would not be put into effect unless the Government considered there was an emergency condition which necessitated its use.

So far as Federal rent controls are concerned, officials stated, there has been no change in the Government's decision to abandon them as of April 30 this year. This would leave the question of rent controls up to the individual provincial legislatures.

SEE LABOR SHORTAGE

The belief was expressed by Government economic experts that it would not be necessary to implement the price, wage and manpower direction controls before next Summer, at which time it is expected Canada will be faced with a shortage of approximately 100,000 workers. Most of this demand will be for high-priced skilled and semi-skilled workers in defence and essential civilian production.

The adoption by Parliament at the coming session of these controls would be a matter of preparedness for any eventuality that might arise.

Official sources said the expected shortage of skilled and semi-skilled workers, and the growing shortages of steel, non-ferrous metals and other essential materials, have been surveyed from the viewpoint of the economic situation which would result.

The whole situation is to be considered by Cabinet next week.

Two Arrested After Chase

A high-speed chase through downtown Victoria streets last night led to the arrest of two young soldiers from Work Point Barracks who were jointly charged with automobile theft.

The two men allegedly took a car belonging to Desmond B. Nex 1187 Lockley Road. Quick work by city constables Arthur Deeks and John Brown resulted in the soldiers' arrest before the car was reported stolen.

On patrol, the two constables spotted the car first as it made a fast get-away from the curb on Johnson Street and raced through two red lights.

When policemen overtook the car, two soldiers jumped out.

Korean Cease-Fire Plan Approved by U.N. Body

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 13 (AP).—The United Nations political committee overwhelmingly approved today a five-point plan for an immediate cease-fire in Korea and a Far Eastern conference attended by Red China.

Russia voted against it and high diplomats said this foreshadowed rejection by Communist China.

The vote was 50 to 7. It came unexpectedly after a committee session marked by cries of "appeasement," "blackmail" and "sell-out."

The appeal is the fifth message on the issue of ending the fighting to be sent Communist China. All other messages were rejected or ignored.

The committee sent the declaration to Peiping with a query as to whether it would be acceptable as a basis for consultations on a cease-fire.

A key point of the decision was that the cease-fire would be in exchange for high-level talks with Red China on the future of Formosa and the Chinese Red request for a U.N. Seat.

The five members of the Soviet Bloc plus Nationalist China and El Salvador voted against the declaration.

Eisenhower Lands in U.K.

LONDON, Jan. 13 (AP). — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower flew into London tonight to draw together more of the threads of his supreme European defence command against Communism.

Waiting in a cold Royal Air Force hangar to receive him at Northolt airport were old war-time buddies and high officials. Among them were Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell, Air Marshal Sir William Elliott, the R.A.F. chief of staff, United States Ambassador Walter Gifford and Charles Spofford, American chairman of the Atlantic Pact's council of deputies.

Boy Drowns After Fall Into Great Central Lake

PORT ALBERNI, Jan. 13.—Wilfred Mason, 14-year-old son of Mrs. June Mason, Great Central Lake, drowned after a fall into the icy waters of the lake shortly after midnight Friday.

Despite artificial respiration applied by neighbors and 2½ hours' work by the inhalator squad of the Port Alberni Volunteer Fire Department, there was no flicker of life.

R.C.M.P. officers said the youngster was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smith, neighbors of the Masons. Wilfred went out of the house, which is built on floats, with a pail to get water from the lake.

COULDN'T SWIM

In the darkness he fell into the lake. He could not swim. His body came to the surface some distance from the float. By the time a boat found him he was evidently dead.

The body is resting at Stevens' Funeral Home in Port Alberni pending a coroner's inquiry.

Besides his mother, the boy is survived by two sisters, Rose Marie and Shirley, also two brothers, Melvin and Leonard.

Leadership Training Project

United Church Plans Drive for Camp

A whirlwind 15-day campaign by the United Church of Canada to raise $20,000 for a special Summer camp in leadership training will get under way Monday.

The camp, to be built at Shawnigan Lake, will be named the George Pringle Memorial Camp.

The camp will consist of an assembly hall, kitchen, showers, cottages for the camp manager and the camp nurse, and dormitory huts.

Intensive courses will be given. The camp days will include: Morning worship, study, discussion, recreation and outdoor activities. When completed, the camp will accommodate 100 young people at a time.

MATERIALS SOUGHT

Canvassers for the fund drive have been given detailed lists of materials required and donations of these will be sought.

Contracts have been lined up for construction of the central unit and electric light and water installations. Building of the dormitory huts will be undertaken by volunteers attending the camp.

Quotas for various towns and areas on Vancouver Island are:

Victoria, $15,000; Nanaimo, $1,700; Duncan, $500; Ladysmith, $300; Courtenay, $400; Cowichan Lake, $200; North Cowichan, $675; Cumberland, $135; Saanich Peninsula, $260; Comox, $85; Parksville, $125; Qualicum, $245; Campbell River, $325; Port Alberni, $1,080; and Alberni, $350.

Hon. W. T. Straith, Minister of Education, heads the central committee, composed of T. Denny, Rev. W. R. Ashford, W. Ireland, Graham McColl, Rev. C. R. McGillivray, C. Annett and J. W. Innes. Campaign director is Denis Hager.

The proposed camp is to be a memorial to two George Pringles. Rev. George Pringle, Sr., was a veteran United Church minister who captained the West Coast mission boat Skypilot for many years. His son, Rev. George Pringle, Jr., in R.C.A.F., was killed over England.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

There has been a great swing back to the primitive lately in the cracker-barrel philosophy set.

All of a sudden, one notes an outcry against this new-fangled psychology (a science which is, in fact, older than Aristotle). One is exhorted to return to the old and trusted "decencies," "standards" and "values."

Deprived of these three words, our homespun lay preachers would instantly be struck dumb; yet I doubt whether they could define any one of them, even in their own language.

Children and criminals are the main targets of the cheap moralizers. The moralizers affirm that all the child or the criminal needs is more old-fashioned discipline and less pampering.

Thomas Richard Henry, Toronto Telegram columnist, cries down the new rule which abolishes homework in Toronto elementary schools. He suggests that Toronto's schools are bad because they're too good, if you follow me.

"With a teacher for every class . . . teachers must be able to spoon-feed the scholars."

"When can students study? Instruction is not the main thing in educating the young. The greatest benefit derived from lessons comes from the student wrestling with the problem himself and possibly mastering it."

(I don't propose to get in a discussion of homework. I'm no authority on education—but neither is Mr. Henry. The statements which follow are the ones which bothered me most):

"The advantage of public education was all with the country one-room school in days gone by. One teacher looked after all the classes in the public school calendar, and, of course, she had only time to hear the lessons that she had assigned and her formula, without benefit of psychological understanding, was very simple.

"You learned the lesson or you stayed after four until you had learned it.

"The system may have been inadequate but there were lads who struggled up through it to law, medicine or the ministry, and some of them have done rather well."

Certainly the teacher's formula was simple. That was the trouble. It was too simple. Children are not machines, to be rolled off the assembly line. They are not little chunks of pig iron which can be passed through the furnace and knocked into shape with a steam-hammer.

They are human organisms, widely varied in texture and melting-point. No two of them have the same heredity and no two of them were moulded by the same environment. The disciplinarians who tried to treat them all alike must answer for a good proportion of the twisted and unhappy people who clutter up the world.

How many poor dull-witted children have been forced to keep up with the brighter ones, and punished as wrong-doers when they failed? How many gifted children have been forced into stupid school drudgery, and punished as wrong-doers when they grew restive and mischievous?

As for the students who rose to high places, some of them may have gained eminence in spite of, rather than because of, the educational system. Others doubtless were motivated to work hard by the very handicaps of their education. That seemed like a good thing, in a way, if it gave them success, but it was a left-handed blessing if it also gave them crotchety, anti-social personalities.

Wouldn't it have been much better if they could have been induced to work hard toward a vocation that suited them, and also guided toward developing a healthy, well-balanced adjustment?

Probably great benefit does come from wrestling with a problem on one's own—either in or out of school. But why shouldn't one be led to do so, rather than driven? "Psychological understanding" calls for the use of both methods, when they are needed. But the emphasis today is on leading, because it works better.

A good lady called Elizabeth Massey Hill wrote an article entitled "Don't Call Me Broad-Minded" in the Woman's Home Companion. It was reprinted in the January Reader's Digest.

The article is an emotional outburst against tolerance. "It amounts to a fetish and I for one am sick of it," the lady says.

"I cannot discover a single thing—except Communism, of course—which we are not supposed to tolerate. Did your neighbor cheat his brother's widow out of her inheritance? Poor thing, he must have been the victim of some childhood insecurity which left him with a pathological craving for money.

"Every undesirable trait must be excused on the grounds of improper upbringing (or too proper, which is apparently even worse), or some mental or physical maladjustment. Never suggest that just possibly a mature individual should be held responsible for his own acts, that he is given a brain with which to reason and control his appetites . . .

Our elders may not have been saints, but at least they had "standards," she says, and adds this: "From now on, call me anything you like, but don't call me broad-minded."

All right, then, I won't call her broad-minded. I'll call her a fool. Her viewpoint represents a dangerous combination of morality and ignorance.

It has been scientifically proved time and time again that human behavior is caused, and that many, at least, of the causes lie beyond the individual's control. That cheating neighbor probably was the victim of childhood insecurity. Undesirable traits can be traced to upbringing which is improper or "too proper." There's plenty of proof.

Psychology doesn't seek to "excuse." It seeks to find and eliminate the causes of undesirable behavior, and to remedy such behavior when it occurs. If quacks misuse psychology, that's not psychology's fault. "Standards," "principles" and "decencies" are fine words, but words are no substitute for understanding.

Average Oriental Today Resents, Despises Europeans

By H. T. MATSON

KUALA LUMPUR, Dec. 31 (By Airmail): This being Sunday (and New Year's Eve) it seemed low form to ask for anything from army, so the day got worked through—as do many — by "footing" methodically street by street, bridge by bridge. At day's end on such days, nearly always something has sunk in—so much in fact, that many things I've witnessed have been neglected, but may return.

For instance, I've not yet mentioned hiring a bicycle in Singapore. It will work in here. On that bicycle I rode about 50 miles (round trip) stopping at various villages, and for a purpose. Small and slatternly as most were, nevertheless each boasted at least one tiny shop with a sign in English to announce what it contained, but what was more important, the signs suggested that the proprietors could speak at least a little English, and that was what I wanted.

OBVIOUS SURLINESS

Now in every instance, there was little doubt that my condescending European patronage was barely suffered. The small request for cigarettes, a couple of oranges or tonic water were attended to with marked surliness, and the looks, concomitant, from the collected kids and hangers-around that haunt all Chinese rural emporiums were bleak, sultry, and often sharply malignant—and as often as not, on pedaling off, I'd hear the children sniggering or openly hooting. I undertook this form of reconnaissance as collateral to what had already been tiresomely received from various waiters, room-boys, porters, taxi drivers, trishaw-toters and the like. Furthermore, on the bike-ride I made several stops attempting to ask directions from the peasant-farmer types, for further evidence, and from their scowling head-shakes, and contumelious turning of direct backs, I became more and more convinced that the average Oriental now both resents and despises the European, and is merely waiting for The Day.

SMALL GROUP

I'm further positive that the only categories who have a good word today for Europeans are those that for years have been successfully trading with them, and they being a distinctly minority group mean vestigially nothing in terms either of respect or support when it comes to the day whereon "which-way-to-go" must be decided. The outstanding exception to this is the Chinese. He, I'm convinced, is above all a trader. Every roof has a shop under it, every collonade is made practically impassable by hundreds of trays piled with wares of dubious worth and origin, but no matter . . . it is lawful barter.

In town and country, it's just the same; and long after dark children of seven and up have their little cardboard boxes, filled with fruit, tobaccos, gee-gaws and so forth, howl and haggle strenuously with their mercenary elders. In essence, it may well be that so long as these countless traders can see their way clear to trade under any circumstances, they will contingently lean to whatever they sense will be the future form of government and are even now taking little trouble to shield their trend of thinking.

APPALLED AT FILTH

And today, in Kuala Lumpur, I investigated something which in a sense is analogous with the foregoing. Ever since landing in Hongkong I've been appalled at living conditions and filth . . . two families to the tinest room, and litter and refuse, and let time and weather attend to its disposal. Singapore is considerably worse than Hongkong, but here at Kuala Lumpur, it's a disgrace. Or is it? Or is that just the white man's attestation? Maybe so. Because here's what struck me. The entire town is (like all others yet seen) literally, shop, shop, shop and shop until the presence of shops becomes almost revolting. But all these mucid little shops are full of merchandise, and all are doing business, and all keep whatever hours they individually choose, and all their owners bow fatly and oleaginously to all that pass and stare.

SET STANDARD

But these same owners—making money — nevertheless live in the filthy crowded rooms above their establishments and apparently have been doing so for years. Now the point is that these types could afford, and very easily, to improve their quarters and mode of living. But they don't. Furthermore they set the standard for the next layers down; and if those layers get no cue from the layer above, then what is to be expected? Stalemate . . . because the petty merchants represent a great deal, both numerically and symbolically. So, to the peasant mind, if the vendor of fine silks, jewels and spices lives rat-like in a hovel, then surely we peasants can only live maggot-like, and in middens?

DON'T WANT CHANGE

True, many of the peasants have been told about the loveliest things in store through Communist propaganda. Good enough; but sufficient unto the day. In the meantime we're quite happy with our muck and maggots. What Jen driving at is that about 80 per cent of Orientals don't actually want any form of change. They've lived crowdedly for centuries, before even Europe became half-civilized; it's innate with them to huddle; there are hundreds of millions of them; they breed faster than they die. So whoever finally takes over, will I'm sure for their everlasting punishment, be faced with having to live and deal forever with millions and millions who prefer, and will perpetuate that preference to live like crawlers in a carcass that never can be devoured, and made clean.

THOUSANDS ENJOY "MAGIC FIRE"

No other solid fuel has earned the popularity of Gasco Briquets. This MAGIC Man-Made Fuel ends furnace-and-ashcan drudgery. They are all heat and no ash and the next thing to automatic heat.

Although these briquets cost a little more per ton, they cost no more to use. This magic man-made fuel saves because there is no ash, because it burns 15% to 20% more efficiently than other solid fuels, because it contains more measured B.T.U.'S (heat units) than any other solid fuel.

You pay no money for ashes, and you get heat from every particle of briquet. That's why thousands of Victoria home owners say "Gasco Briquets cost less to use."

B.C. Indians Form Party

VANCOUVER, Jan. 13 (CP).—A group of British Columbia Indians has formed a political party to fight for Indian rights.

Guy Williams, a fisherman from nearby Steveston and the party leader, said the Indian Non-Partisan Party intended to run candidates in the Provincial field and would attempt to supply the Government with men who could handle Indian affairs ably.

Mr. Williams said the party had been quietly organizing for months "to keep Victoria from pushing us around and to protect our unsurrendered land and the future of our children."

Chief William Scow, president of the B.C. Native Brotherhood, said the brotherhood recognized no political groups and could not endorse the I.N.P. led by Mr. Williams.

Mr. Williams claimed to have "thousands of sympathizers who will fight for our rights."

Andy Paull, of Vancouver, leader of the North American Indian Brotherhood, went to Victoria earlier this week to ask the Provincial Government to settle a debt for millions of dollars for land acquired during the last 100 years.

He produced documents purporting to show that the Indians had never surrendered by treaty 348,000 square miles of land in the Provinces, including much of Victoria and neighboring areas.

"Jock" Petticrew to Mark 50 Years Of Colonist Deliveries, Collections

The city directory lists him as: John C. Petticrew, 1171 Rockland Avenue, collector, Colonist.

But for the past 50 years "Jock" Petticrew has flipped well over 2,000,000 copies of The Daily Colonist onto front doorsteps all over the city.

Actually, Jock celebrates his 50th year next Thursday—he joined the staff January 18, 1901, when he was 16.

"Shortly before Queen Victoria died," is the way the Kilmarnock-born Scotsman tabs the date.

In those 50 years, the white-haired, pink-faced carrier "boy" has seen a lot of changes in the city—from the days when his route in town included 30 saloons and the paper was an eight-page journal.

JOCK PETTICREW

THREW AWAY KEYS

"They threw away the keys when a new saloon was opened in those days," said Jock.

There were only six carrier boys when he started at the beginning of the half-century—today, there are 193. Circulation in those days was 5,000—now it's 27,000 daily and more than 30,000 on Sunday.

Jock's first route ran along Broad Street, to Johnson, Blanshard, Douglas and the City Hall. He carried about 150 papers every morning and started at 6 a.m.

The 68-year-old Scot still has a downtown route with 140 papers to be delivered each morning (except Monday) starting at 6:30 a.m.

In answer to retirement queries, Jock just tells the asker that he wants to "sign on for another 50 years."

HARDLY A BELL

"There's hardly a door bell in the city that I haven't rung," Jock said as he recalled some of the highlights of a job that started after he moved here from Scotland in 1891.

Jock went along for nine years without missing a day due to illness or other causes; he never folded his papers in the old days but if there was a high wind he would tuck them under the doormats; he never received a tip of more than 25 cents and he's never complained about it.

Oddest incident that ever happened to Jock on his route in the old days was the time he came upon a dead man in a cabin on Store Street.

"Leave him alone, son," said a bystander. "He's just drunk."

CALLED TO COURT

The police didn't think so and called young Jock into court as a witness. He was 14 then and thought the police were going to charge him with the man's murder. It wasn't murder though, so Jock went back to his route.

Jock championed the newsboy's right to ride the sidewalks on his bicycle while delivering papers.

He was caught once himself, fined $3 but given the fine back after he straightened out the situation to everyone's satisfaction.

His fellow carriers when he first started his route were Charlie McNeil, Jimmy Moss, George Little, Walter Mould and the late Sinclair Hurn and Billy Bryce.

Firms Battle Over Names In High Court

Legal battle being waged by the United States firm of Chemicals, Inc. and Overseas Commodities Ltd., a British Columbia-registered company, with Shanahan Ltd., Vancouver, over similar trade names for paint cleaning products, continued in Appeal Court Friday.

Chemicals Inc. opened the appeal Thursday against a judgment by Chief Justice W. B. Farris dismissing their action for damages against Shanahan's for wrongfully inducing a breach of contract and for trade libel.

Chemicals Inc. began manufacturing a paint remover under the name of "Vano" in 1940.

The product was "extensively" advertised in both Canada and the United States from 1940 to 1946, according to Alfred Bull, K.C., counsel for the appellant firms.

VANO, SHANO

In 1943, Shanahan's began manufacture of a similar product under the name of "Shano."

In 1946, Overseas Commodities began to import quantities of "Vano" but stopped after its distributors, Kelly Douglas Ltd., received a letter from Shanahan's requesting cessation of distribution under the name "Vano."

The letter stated that similarity of the names was likely to cause confusion and, according to Mr. Bull, threatened suit against Chemicals Inc. unless the product was withdrawn.

John Farris, K.C., counsel for Shanahan's, maintained that his clients had adopted the trade name "Shano" "unwittingly and unknowingly, without having heard of 'Vano'."

Portland Youth Missing in City

A 17-year-old youth from Portland, Ore., who arrived in Victoria Friday morning to attend Shawnigan Lake School, has been reported missing.

He is James Eastman of 8024 Southeast 32, Portland, who is described as having reddish-blond hair, and as wearing a grey suit, blue corduroy shirt and brown overcoat.

The lad's mother, Mrs. J. W. Eastman, phoned city police long distance last night to report that her son had notified her of his arrival here at 10:30 a.m. Friday but that he had not arrived at the Island school.

Mrs. Eastman told Victoria police that the boy might try to enlist in one of the services here.

Bus, Truck, Car Damaged

Fairly heavy damage was caused to a bus, a truck and a parked car last night in a three-way collision on Fairfield Road.

A truck driven east on Fairfield by Lum Wah, 2516 Wark Street, was in collision with a bus driven by Howard Taylor, 360 Richmond Road, and then with a parked car owned by Ann S. Paterson, 1337 Carnsew Street.

Heaviest damage was to the parked car. No one was injured.

Snow Forecast; May Finish Winter-Long Touch of Spring

The weatherman has injected a surprise into the forecast for Vancouver Island today in the form of snow flurries, falling temperatures and cold northerly winds.

Victorians have been lulled into a false sense of security by mild rainy weather so far this Winter, and a fall of snow and freezing temperatures will come as a shock to amateur forecasters who predicted a "green Winter."

A quick glance at last year's records shows that on January 13 a new record low of six degrees above zero was reached in Victoria.

Even some animals seemed to think they had the weather licked. C. Campbell at Cowichan Bay reported a ewe gave birth to triplets last Wednesday.

Unless that mother sheep has facilities for keeping her family warm she is going to wish she had waited a few more weeks.

Keynote of the Day
The early part of the nineteenth century is recognized as the beginning of the machine age. With the machine age came modern medicine and pharmacy. Average life expectancy in 1850 was 39.8 years. Today it is about 67 years. Better living, better health, and longer life are the keynotes of the twentieth century. The art of the apothecary has been prominent in all medical progress. Guns But No Men to Fire Them

On Page One of this newspaper today there is disclosed a situation that should make every Victorian sit up and take sharp notice. In so far as the Reserve Army is concerned this area is almost defenceless. There are guns, but not enough men to fire them. There are eight separate units, but they exist mostly on paper. Instead of the needed establishment of some 3,600 men the combined strengths total only one-sixth of that number.

The figures cited by The Colonist survey set completely at naught the evasive pleasantries of Defence Minister Claxton. They show up sharply a complacency at N.D.H.Q. that has no warrant in view of the present critical world situation. They sustain to the full the demand of the Canadian Legion for compulsory Reserve Army service.

It should shock Victorians to learn that their long-range coastal guns are without enough men to fire them; that enemy planes could saunter overhead at leisure [illegible] eighth as strong as it should be, could do to prevent them; and that this area's only fighting infantry unit has 150 men in its ranks when it should have some 900.

There can be no surprise that local commanding officers are at their wits' end. Recruiting campaign after recruiting campaign, has proved fruitless; enlistments lag far behind needed complements. This reflects no credit on the manpower of this city, yet it also indicates that youthful males are waiting on the Government to give the only kind of lead that fits the situation. There is every reason to believe that introduction of compulsory Reserve Army service would be received here with enthusiasm.

Victoria is not alone in under-strength reserve units; the same story could be told of most cities all across the country. It is thus proved beyond all question that only some form of compulsory service will put Canadian reserve units on the firm basis that should be theirs today.

Central Saanich Elects Its First Council

MUNICIPAL history was made in Central Saanich yesterday when electors of the former Ward Six area went to the polls to choose the first council of the new municipality. As though aware of the significance of a good start they turned out in large numbers, casting a total vote of 70 per cent of those eligible. In view of the number of ratepayers not resident in the municipality, nearly one-fifth, this was a splendid showing, and is a good augury for the future.

Mr. Sydney Pickles, who led the long fight for secession of the district from Saanich Municipality, was rewarded by a two-to-one majority in the contest for the initial reeveship, and it will now be his responsibility to guide the new council over its early difficulties. The voting for all four council seats was keen throughout the day, each of the five candidates being well supported, and the single loser was defeated only by a comparatively narrow margin.

Yesterday's election sets the seal on the establishment of the new municipality of Central Saanich. The good wishes of Victoria and district will go with the officers chosen to run the affairs of this rural area of Saanich, not least those of the parent body from which it has been detached. A new era begins for the residents of Central Saanich, and with good will and the sustained interest of its ratepayers there should be every prospect of success.

Return of Influenza Is Grim Symptom

EVEN though it is now known that initial reports of deaths from influenza at Liverpool were exaggerated, the grim fact remains that something like a revival of this dread scourge is making its presence felt in Great Britain and on continental Europe, from which it has spread in the postwar years. It could hardly have been otherwise, with conditions on the Continent as they have been, with large populations living under inadequate housing, heating and other physical handicaps. Victoria, with its own grim memories of the disease, will expect of health officials a close watch upon any advance showing of the complaint. Meanwhile every sympathy will be felt with the north counties in Great Britain from which the present manifestation seems to be emanating.

There are, of course, ways to handle an outbreak of influenza here should it recur. The steps that would need to be taken, however, are severe and inconvenient, and as such cannot readily be applied in advance of an active outbreak, should there ever again be one here. They consist of certain minimum conditions as to feeding and clothing, dry and draftproof shelter, and avoidance of public concourse by every means that could then be made available. As that actually means a breakdown in social communication and many other direct inconveniences, not much can be done about such steps in advance. All will hope, however, that this stubborn plague can be met and stopped before its current toll rises.

In so far as present-day knowledge is concerned, influenza in epidemic form is not something that is sown deliberately by man, but only reaped by him. Its danger lies in the terrifically fast spread of the disease once it secures a hold. Modern advance in medicine may well assist in curbing the present outbreak overseas in a manner that was not possible even ten years ago.

"We'll probably get Colorado beetles and a radio-active harvest this year." —London Daily Express.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

ONE virtue about knowing nothing of a subject is that you approach it without qualm, uninhibited by the fact that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing.

It is ignorance, then, that enables me to talk about the Milky Way—and arithmetic.

In fine truth my only acquaintance with the glittering assemblage that shines (sometimes) from the heavens, is when I tilt my head upwards of an evening to see if it seems likely to rain.

Well, maybe not quite.

I can recall the Winter galaxy on the crisp, cold Prairie, so spectacular as to pale its coastal reflection to insipidity. Once, too, I seem to remember faintly, I was taught something about finding my way roughly by the stars, although now if I spot the plough all by myself I'm away above normal.

'Tis a sad confession, I admit, what with an observatory at my back door and an astronomical society that—(possibly)—would let me listen-in on their secrets.

At school, though, arithmetic was never my meat, and astronomy and arithmetic go hand in hand.

This I judge from what the director of Harvard College observatory has been telling his Pennsylvania cousins. After 18 years' photography he has concluded there are at least 200 billion galaxies just like the Milky Way, as many galaxies as all the human beings who ever lived—and then some.

Frankly, if you're not astronomical by nature, I don't expect you to grasp this figure. It's well outside my own ken. It's akin to the "megabuck" (a million dollars) that nuclear scientists have invented to express the price of their new instruments.

I wish I were a pundit. This kind of terminology makes me feel the size of a dot.

What amazes me specially is the confident precision of scientific blokes, astronomers of course included. I can hardly count up to a hundred, while these chaps—well . . .

Well, they're as meticulous as General MacArthur's staff officers. Two weeks ago, for example, these masterminds declared, quite soberly, that (quote): "444,408 Reds are deployed along the front stretching across the peninsula south of Parallel 38. Of these 277,173 are Chinese and the rest are North Koreans."

Isn't that superb arithmetical deduction—unless, by jove, they crossed no-man's land and counted the enemy one by one!

Now of course astronomers don't cross no-man's land to count two hundred galaxies one by one — not yet anyway. They use a telescope.

Very effectively.

Says the Harvard man: "In the visible half of the sky—the half not obscured by dust and gas clouds from the familiar Milky Way—the number of galaxies, out to billion light-year distance, that the Palomar telescope can see appears to be about one billion. But the volume of a billion light-year radius still appears to be a small fraction of the galaxy-populated universe, and there are probably not over one per cent of galaxies in that volume."

Talk about Sherlock Holmes! No wonder I'm as dense as Dr. Watson.

And, remember, the universe is still in a "youthful state." Which means, I suppose, that the 200 billion Milky Ways will double themselves in due time.

It makes me old merely to write that down. Why, when I was at school, didn't I pay attention to arithmetic?

But what—horrid thought—if some day somebody takes a jet ride to the moon and discovers there are only 199 billion galaxies!

If, that is, a billion or so really matters.

TO subsidize or not to subsidize the hospital insurance fund: that is the hottest question to come before the Legislature next month.

In the first two years of operation the Government has already poured $6,700,000 into the scheme. This is aside from premiums paid for old-age pensioners and social assistance cases, and the 70 cents per patient a day which both the Province and the municipalities contribute. It does not take into account the very large sums being advanced for hospital construction.

Although an increase in premiums up to $36 was authorized by the Legislature last year, no increase was imposed last June, when it first could have been applied. This was because collections had improved, and it appeared for a time that, with the $2,500,000 subsidy for 1950, an increase might not be needed.

Now an increase has come and the question is whether the ceiling is to be lifted above $36; that is, whether the increase for couples and families will exceed $3.

The amount of the premium increase will hinge on the size of subsidy which the Government is willing to put up.

On this question there is deep cleavage in the Cabinet. At the start everyone agreed the scheme should pay its own way in premiums. It has never done so. It has gone in the red by perhaps $7,000,000 in two years; the exact amount may be disclosed next month.

One faction of the Cabinet, opposed to subsidies, stresses that the only way to curb soaring hospital costs is to establish a direct connection between costs and premiums. Hospitals would have so much to spend each year. They would not be operating with the knowledge that the Government would automatically bail out the hospital insurance fund.

In the background is a very strong move to keep the budget from jumping too many millions again this year. A subsidy for hospital insurance means a higher budget. Increased premiums are not reflected in the budget. They are paid directly into the hospital insurance fund.

A second group in the Cabinet fears that if premiums go too high it will increase the number of persons who cannot or will not pay. This group would like to see only a moderate premium increase, with a subsidy to make up the balance.

Because of the deep split in the Cabinet, it's probable both sides will be presented to the Coalition caucus, and the decision left up to private members.

A subsidy is an easier political dish to hand out than a big premium increase and it's likely that subsidies will continue.

The controversy over development of hydro-electric power at Quesnel points up again the need for better co-ordination between power and fisheries agencies of government. It is reported that the Federal Department of Fisheries has spent well over $100,000 in research and planning to re-establish salmon spawning in the Quesnel River. Two years ago the Province authorized the British Columbia Power Commission to build a big power project on which a pulp industry could be based to use the vast timber resources of the Interior. Apparently the Federal fisheries people went ahead with their plans without taking into account this possibility.

No studies have gone forward on how best to combine fisheries with power development, or the relative economic importance of each in specific cases.

"WHAT are you supposed to be figuring out now?" the boss of the shop asked Bill, the Broad Street barber, when he noticed him scribbling rapidly on a fragment of paper with a pencil stub not more than an inch long. "I find it exceedingly hard to mind my own business in this place. For your information, I am figuring out a budget which may or may not allow me to have a good holiday next Summer," Bill explained. "A budget is a guide to show a person what he cannot afford," the boss chuckled. . . . "Well, well! How does mother's little nursemaid like his new job?" Barber Ben teased a neighbor's son when he saw him pushing his little baby brother along in a perambulator. "Button up your lip, Benjamin. I am getting paid for this job," the boy retorted. "Nice looking baby. I think he looks like your dad," Ben observed, leaning over to inspect the infant. "Yeah, he looks a lot like my old man. They are both bald," he boy commented. . . . From the Keating Squire: "A wise man wrote that great minds discuss ideas. Normal minds discuss events, and small minds discuss persons." . . . Tobacconist Martin listened with boredom while a customer complained about the high cost of food, the enormous Government tax on cigarettes, and the probability of another world conflict. "You should stop now and then to count all your blessings," Martin advised. "Count all my blessings?" That would be liable to attract attention of the income tax department," the man snorted. . . . It was some time before readers let the editor of The Kingston, Ont., Whig forget his printed remark about picking pockets, which ran: "Instead of having his pocket picked in a crowd, a man can get married and have it done at home."

Character Is Still the Main Asset

(From The Owen Sound Sun-Times)

IN this modern world, we hear so much about scholastic standings, abilities, aptitudes, etc., that sometimes our young people may be inclined to lose sight of the importance of character in the preparation for life's work.

Speaking recently at Tilbury, Ont., W. Wallace Muir, an official of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Windsor, pointed out that his company emphasizes character in its search for new members of its staff. When an applicant is seeking a job, the most necessary feature is to possess a good character, he said. Unless a man or woman has that, other advantages are lessened. It is of little use to hire a man to work if he is not industrious; to give him responsibility if he is irresponsible; to place him in a position of trust if he be untrustworthy.

Perhaps never before was character so much an asset in business as now. It has not lost its value in 1951, and even a brilliant individual without character is under a heavy handicap.

THAT HALF-CENTURY

Sir,—With all due respect to Mrs. R. E. Mawle, who states in her letter that the half-century ended with 1950 and the second half is now starting with 1951, I am one of those who think and say that the first half-century ended at midnight, December 31, 1949, and that the first year of the second half of the century is completed when we first start to write 1951, otherwise why the 1? In the same way, 1901 to 1999 is the 20th century.

CHARLES W. PEPPER.

RENTS AND REPAIRS

Sir,—One agrees with the letter entitled "Increase of Rentals" in Thursday's Colonist. While many owners of rented units are not concerned with the fuel costs of tenants, there are many who are concerned with the high cost of repairs and paint.

Constant encouragement of no increases in rentals is an open invitation to slums. How can an owner be expected to pay repairs and upkeep on a building to the comfort of tenants and the protection of property unless the rental increases appear to keep up with the high cost of repairs? The present luxury costs of home building prove that the present homes and buildings will be needed, regardless of age.

If gardens must resist weeds to survive, so must homes and buildings resist slums to survive. Increases in rentals are sometimes necessary as a protection to property.

MRS. A. BRAZIL.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Sir,—It is with some degree of trepidation that I describe not only my own reaction, but the reaction of many thousands of citizens of this province in regard to the present and proposed increased fees for hospital insurance to above $36 per year.

One is nonplussed to explain, to analyze the workings of the official mind with regard to the whole question of hospital insurance. Whoever was it who framed and presented this half-baked attempt to provide a social service for British Columbia?

From the very first whisperings of hospital insurance (from the official administration angle) I felt that British Columbia was not yet ready for this advanced social service. I felt, and still feel, that there are not enough people in the province; that this service cannot economically be provided.

The collection of charges has been a masterpiece of bumbling ineptitude.

The Blue Cross, of which I was a member, did provide a service, and, as far as it went, a splendid service at the price paid. Now British Columbia has blown a balloon which gets bigger and bigger, day by day, but cannot give the "lift" which one should expect from the pouring of money into the coffers of the Provincial Treasury . . .

FRANK L. GODFREY.
Sidney, B.C.

My Life

Let me but live my life from year to year
With forward face and unreluctant soul;
Not hurrying to, nor turning from, the goal;
Not mourning for the things that disappear
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear
From what the future veils; but with a whole
And happy heart, that pays its toll
To Youth and Age, and travels on with cheer.
So let the way wind up the hill or down,
O'er rough or smooth, the journey will be joy:
Still seeking what I sought when but a boy,
New friendships, high adventures and a crown,
My heart will keep the courage of the quest,
And hope the road's last turn will be the best.

—HENRY VAN DYKE.

Victoria in Beard and Crinoline

From Files of The Daily British Colonist for January, 1864

By G. E. MORTIMORE

EVEN in colonial days, Victoria was a cold show town. The apathy of its people to the theatre plagued showmen then as it does now.

"We cannot fail to be reminded at this season," said The Daily British Colonist, "of the complaint . . . of the excessive dullness of Victoria as a Winter residence for the miners.

"Is it impossible that we shall ever lose the stigma? We had ventured to hope a short time ago that the character of our city was in a fair way to be redeemed in this particular; but we have scarcely arrived at the end of the Christmas holidays, and we have not one legitimate place of amusement open.

"It is true that private entertainments and friendly and social gatherings appear to have increased in number as compared with former years; but this is not sufficient to make Victoria attractive to those who have money to spend.

"It certainly is a matter of surprise that the inhabitants of Victoria cannot support a good company at the theatre. We have had amongst us for some time past, a theatrical company of no mean talent, and it is impossible to regard the miserable support which has been accorded them with any feeling but regret.

"It has sometimes been alleged that the public entertainments in this city are not . . . worth public patronage and support; and if such were the case, we could hardly expect that the public should feel much interest in the performances.

"But when we find the public equally careless in supporting the efforts of those who have every talent and qualification necessary for the due rendering of the histrionic art, we can only come to the conclusion that there is no appreciation of the 'buskin' amongst our citizens."

If Victoria didn't smarten up, The Colonist warned, many miners would head for the bright lights of San Francisco for the Winter. But at least Victoria had its saloons, which is more than it has now.

The two new recruits to the Foreign Legion met in a cool wine cellar after a couple of rugged weeks of training on long marches under the desert sun.

"And why did you enlist?" one of the men asked the other.

"I joined up to forget a girl I could not forget," replied this one. "I believe her name was Elsie."

Reports Show Satellites Arming for Blow at Tito

VIENNA, Jan. 13 (INS). — Well-founded reports from three Russian Danube satellites who have an estimated 700,000 men under arms make it appear virtually certain tonight that they are mobilizing at [illegible]

Both American and British sources in Vienna—with certain reservations—feel that the mobilization moves in Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria point toward "imminent action" against Yugoslavia, perhaps this Spring.

Western intelligence groups say 200,000 of the estimated 700,000 were called to arms within the past two months.

Other hundreds of thousands are being made ready for immediate duty, and in the same area are between ten and 14 Russian divisions at fighting peak. Another three Soviet divisions are in Austria, another land bordering Yugoslavia.

Here are examples of what has occurred recently in the three Danube states:

HUNGARY

With a new $100,000,000 "peace loan," the regular army is building to a peak of 180,000 men and stockpiling for more. Seventeen new airfields are being built. Besides regulars there are 50,000 Hungarian "police" and 300,000 in the "workers' militia."

Four Russian tank divisions and four motorized infantry divisions are believed to be in Hungary today and the Red airfield network is the most extensive in Eastern Europe.

British intelligence circles said three of the Russian divisions are new. One source said they were Mongolian troops.

A Russian major-general, Stefan Barta, reportedly is chief of staff of the Hungarian army. By decree, all industry is to be on a war footing by February 1. The officially stated aim is "to preserve peace." Military instruction for all male university students was ordered recently.

ROMANIA

The standing army reportedly has been increased to 300,000 recently. Four Romanian divisions are said to have now returned from training in the Soviet Union. At least three new "instruction centres" are set up and Soviet armor is located in strategic pockets along the Yugoslav frontier.

Russian troops include one air division, one motorized, and two infantry divisions. Their headquarters are at Timisoara.

Romanian troop morale is said to be very good. Besides regulars Romania maintains a giant police force which actually is a militia.

BULGARIA

The army has been increased from 125,000 in November to 200,000 in early January. It is felt that the larger increase in Bulgaria is a reflection of Bulgaria's high standing as the top Sovietised army in the Balkans.

Bulgarians are getting hundreds of Russian T-34 tanks and planes for a three-division air force.

(Bulgarian total forces are three times as large as those allowed in the peace treaty limiting the size of the forces of the former Nazi allies. Hungarian and Romanian forces are believed to be about 2½ times over the limit).

All three countries have increased their propaganda attacks on Yugoslavia, which broke with the Moscow-led Cominform bloc early in 1948.

The Western concensus in Vienna is that the Soviet satellite regimes are not mobilizing for peace.

Tale of Korea Liquor Gouge Brings Demand for Probe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (INS). — House Armed Services Committee Chairman Vinson today asked Defence Secretary George C. Marshall to investigate reports of a black market in Korea with whisky selling at $35 a fifth.

Vinson said he was sending Mr. Marshall a letter from an unidentified G.I. which declared that army authorities refused to intervene.

The soldier charged that beer purchased for the armed forces was being sold in Korean "grog shops" at $1.25 a can and two-ounce medicinal brandy doses at 75 cents each.

The letter also alleged that Korean natives were offering to sell United States army clothing to American troops and that personnel of the Criminal Investigation Division of the army informed him they "can't touch" the black market operation.

Rough Terrain of Korea Ideal for Cavalry Raids

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP).—Hit-and-run raids by Chinese Red cavalry in Korea have revived interest in that defunct but once spectacular branch of the U.S. Army.

Some officers think U.N. forces could use horses to advantage in the rough terrain of Korea—or in other parts of Asia.

Sentimental attachment to the horse cavalry still is strong. When the 1st Cavalry Division was converted to infantry it kept its name for tradition's sake.

OLD TACTICS

The Chinese Reds use tactics employed against the Chinese more than 700 years ago by one of history's great military leaders.

The lightning cavalry raid helped the Mongol emperor Genghis Khan to conquer most of China, Western Asia and Eastern Europe.

A major in the 7th Cavalry Regiment, now fighting as infantry, said the Chinese could use cavalry well because "the rugged hills and poor roads give them an advantage in certain conditions over infantry and tanks."

COULD DO SAME

He added: "I think we could do the same thing with horses if we had them."

The Chinese use tough, Winter-hardened Asian ponies. They also use Gobi Desert camels as pack animals.

Cavalry was abolished by the U.S. Army after the World War. Great advances in the mobility and fire power of tanks and its vulnerability to low-flying aircraft put the horse out of business.

Say Truman Should Seek Congressional Approval

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP). — Three Senate supporters of the Administration's military aid program said today President Truman's best hope for national unity lies in obtaining Congressional approval of sending troops to Europe.

At the same time, Senators Taft (Rep., Ohio) and Wherry (Rep., Neb.) renewed demands that the lawmakers be given a chance to pass on any move to dispatch ground troops to help man Western Europe's defences against threatened Soviet attack.

President Truman has said he will consult Congress—but won't be bound by its decision—on the policy of furnishing American divisions for the international army to be formed under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. The two Senators have challenged Mr. Truman's right to act alone.

Indo-China Position Improved

HANOI, Vietnam, Indo-China, Jan. 13 (AP).—The French defensive position in strategic north Indo-China has taken a decided turn for the better in the last three weeks.

Three factors have helped brighten military prospects in the long war against Ho Chi Minh's Communist-commanded Vietminh rebels:

1. Indo-China's new high commissioner and commander in chief, Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, who whipped through a lot of changes in his first inspection of French posts.

2. Arrival of long-awaited reinforcements — fresh battalions of Foreign Legionnaires, Moroccan and Senegalese colonial troops from Africa, new tanks, planes and artillery.

3. Blunting of massed Vietminh assaults on the Red River delta defence system and a French counter-offensive which cleared threatening concentrations from the coastal salient to the northeast. The rebels fell back to mountain hideouts.

Action Sought In Child's Death

VANCOUVER, Jan. 13 (CP).—Mrs. Anna Sprolt, chairman of Vancouver's Civic Social Service Committee, said today she wished to see "responsibility placed somewhere" in the death of two-year-old Alphonse Bailey.

A coroner's jury last night found that death of the boy in a foster home New Year's Day was "unnatural" and that it was due to head injuries, cause unknown. It recommended tighter regulations affecting city foster homes.

U.S. Parents Angrily Protest Proposal to Draft 18-Year-Olds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP). — Angry telegrams and letters pounded Congress today from parents protesting the United States Administration request to draft 18-year-olds for 27 months' military service.

The flood of protests, which began as a trickle last week, has been increasing with every mail.

The Senate preparedness subcommittee was told President Truman supported a plan for lowering the minimum induction age from 19 to 18 and lengthening required service from 21 to 27 months.

It was offered as a permanent plan for meeting the emergency increases in the armed services and maintaining a trained reserve in the future.

Defence officials said they had few alternatives for obtaining the men needed to build the services up to the 3,462,205 goal approved by Truman yesterday. This means an increase of 1,000,000 men.

Unless the services draft 18-year-olds, they will have to induct thousands of now-deferred husbands, fathers, college students, farmers, industrial workers and some veterans now in the manpower pool of men 19 through 25.

Telegrapher Arraigned Over Crash

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Jan. 13 (CP).—Looking calm but haggard after five days in custody, Alfred John Atherton, 22, today was arraigned in court here on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Canoe River train wreck.

An application for bail was heard from William Ferry, defence counsel, but was postponed until later today pending hearing from Crown counsel H. W. McInnis, K.C., of Penticton, B.C.

The charge against Atherton said that he "at or near Canoe River on or about November 21 did unlawfully kill and slay Henry Prostkunik," a fireman, who was one of 21 killed in the crash.

Flu Outbreak Tightens Check At Immigration

HALIFAX, Jan. 13 (CP). — Port officials here today ordered a closer medical check of incoming passengers because of the influenza outbreak in England.

Dr. G. S. Harris, assistant port doctor, said that although all passengers seeking entry to Canada must pass a medical examination, a closer inspection will be maintained.

First big job will be the examination of 666 passengers arriving here Monday aboard the liner Scythia.

Oddities

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 13 (AP).—Ed Van Dyne will be 107 Monday, but he's celebrating two days early because Saturday is party night.

Besides, he's thinking of his guests.

"It'll give 'em all day Sunday to recuperate," he explained.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Octavia McCoy obtained a warrant for her husband today.

Sheriff R. Bickford Curtis of Warwick County said she complained her husband had been "fending around."

The husband's name: Hatfield McCoy.

BLYTH, England, Jan. 13 (AP).—For 24 hours police investigated the smashing of some 70 windows on the main street of this Northumberland town.

Then they announced: "The miscreant seemed to have a grudge against someone."

Man to Hang For Murder

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 13 (CP).—Walter G. Rowe, 20-year-old native of Detroit, today was convicted of the gun-killing of a London, Ont., youth. He was sentenced to be hanged April 5.

It exonorated Rowe's 20-year-old companion, John Bechard.

Rowe was convicted of shooting 20-year-old Clare Galbreath during an attempt to rob a service station.

ANCIENT CUSTOM

ASLACKBY, England (CP). — An ancient New Year custom was revived in this Lincolnshire village. A donkey was taken into the local pub and customers toasted the "noble steed"—sitting on its back. The animal behaved well.

MORE COMFORT, MORE SECURITY, THAN YOU EVER HAD BEFORE
Now, 'round the clock comfort with this new Cream!
Morning — Put Poli-Grip on at the morning. It's dainty, easy-to-apply.
Noon — Eat what you like, while Poli-Grip holds tight.
Night — Like to sleep with your teeth in? Go ahead! They're secure with Poli-Grip.
Many tried powders, found they failed! Read what they say about this new way:
"For ten years my teeth wouldn't stay tight for more than two hours a day. I tried powders, but nothing worked till your new cream, Poli-Grip, came along." Mrs. T. W. Medfield, Mass.
"Your new cream, Poli-Grip, is grand. My husband and I find it holds tighter than anything we've ever tried." M. E. K. Somerville, Mass.
"I never cared for the powders, but I do like your new cream, Poli-Grip. I find Poli-Grip so pleasant to use and it holds so long." Mrs. W. J. A. Waltham, Mass.
"I tried every brand of powder to keep my plates in. No success. But your new cream, Poli-Grip, holds them without wobbling." W. F. C. East Weymouth, Mass.
See if you don't find that Poli-Grip does all these wonderful things for you, too:
1. . . . form a creamy cushion between your plate and gums to eliminate the friction that makes gums sore.
2. . . . hold even shallow lower plates, despite lack of suction.
3. . . . seal the edges of plates so food particles can't get underneath to cause irritation.
4. . . . enable you to eat hard-to-chew foods in comfort, like steak, apples, celery, even corn on the cob.
5. . . . give you full confidence to laugh, talk, sing without fear of embarrassment due to slipping plates.
6. . . . hold plates tight during strenuous sessions of coughing or sneezing.
Yes, the people who make Polident, the world's largest selling denture cleanser, are standing right behind their new adhesive cream, Poli-Grip, with an ironclad guarantee. You get double your money back, if Poli-Grip doesn't hold your plates tighter, longer than anything you've ever tried.

Theatre Guild's "Silver Whistle" Shaping Up to Be Howling Success

THE ENTERTAINMENT WORLD

By RON BAIRD

"The Silver Whistle" is shaping up to be a howling success.

Victoria Theatre Guild players and technical crew were putting the finishing touches to the three-act comedy Friday night at the Langham Court Theatre, off Rockland Avenue.

The play opens Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. It will run through January 22.

We strolled in amid the hum of a vacuum cleaner, the scraping of furniture being moved on the stage and the orderly confusion that generally attends a dress rehearsal.

Director Vivienne Chadwick pointed out the stage sets—the entire play takes place in the garden of an old people's home—and showed us the profusion of paper flowers that are used in the play. These were gathered up from city stores by hard-working property technicians, Mrs. Elsie Lucas and Mrs. Marjorie Barker.

GRATIEN (FRIDOLIN) GELINAS

STAGGERING WORK

The staggering amount of work that goes on behind scenes before the audience ever sees the production was shown in the sets. Under Technical Director Maurice Johnson and Set Designer John Keane, a crew of about ten guild technicians worked for weeks from a scale model of the set.

From pieces of cardboard, various odd lengths of wood, with nails, hammer and saw, the colorful settings and background were put together. Chief asset that welded them together was old-fashioned hard work.

And hard work that has been done for weeks by all connected with "The Silver Whistle" is what will give first-nighters Tuesday more than their money's worth.

Friday night, the 186-seat theatre was all but empty except for the players and production crew — and Omar, the rooster. He sat behind the set muttering away to himself and waiting to get on-stage with the cast.

"When are they putting the ground curtain down?" someone asked Maurice Johnson.

"Tomorrow, my dear," he replied and popped back-stage to attend to some details along the technical line.

Lights flashed on and off as technicians Ron Barker, Pamela Birley, Jessie Keane, Stan Mill and others attended to details.

Then the curtain came down and the cast took their places on stage. It was Director Vivienne Chadwick's turn at bat and she put the cast through their paces with quiet efficiency.

A faint crow from Omar wafted from backstage — then someone switched on a vacuum cleaner but just as quickly shut it off again.

It would hardly be fair to give the plot away, but certainly fair to say that "The Silver Whistle" is a very, very funny play and extremely well done by the Victoria Theatre Guild. It was staged in New York in 1943 with screen and stage star Jose Ferrer playing the lead role.

Taking part in the play are Vaughan Barker, Mrs. D. B. Dunbar, Cynthia Ross, Grace Tuckey, John Keane, Mrs. Vera Trueman, Mrs. Olive Keane, Ken Bostock, Bill Lukyn, Jack Chadwick, Ernest Evans, T. W. Mayne, Harold Gelling, Alec McGown and one other player as yet unnamed.

Included in the technical crew are Jessie Keane, Jan Bartholemew, Francis James and carpenters Clarke Gilbart and Len Robinson.

Everyone should enjoy "The Silver Whistle" — as we said, it's a very, very funny comedy and well worth going to next week.

SEEKS HONOR

Gratien (Fridolin) Gelinas, Canada's top-ranking theatrical star, things a prophet should seek honor first in his own country.

The writer-star-director-producer of the record-breaking play "Ti-Coq" (Little Rooster), said in Toronto last week that "the opening here meant as much, if not more, to me, than any other opening we may face.

"I have had offers from New York and Hollywood before," said the little French-Canadian with the expressive, furrowed face, "but I hesitated because I feel that before trying to win audiences outside, an artist must first win the approval of his own country. This is one of the reasons the Toronto showing is so important."

CLUB MEETS

The Recorded Music Society held its bi-monthly musical program at the Rendezvous Club January 10.

Included was the "Sorcerer's Apprentice" [illegible] Rhapsody for Piano and Orchestra, First Opus;" Schubert's "Symphony No. 8" and "Gianni Schicchi," a one-act opera by Paganini.

Next meeting of the society will be held at the Rendezvous Club January 25.

CONCERT SOLD OUT

Seats for the Victoria Symphony concert Monday are completely sold out.

The fifth concert of the season will feature Toronto-born pianist Marian Grudeff as guest soloist. She will play Bach's Brandenburg Concerto, with added soloists Clifford Evens and Maurice Crawford, and Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 2 in C-minor.

Third selection by the orchestra will be the "Surprise" Symphony by Haydn.

GRACIE RETURNING?

Singer Gracie Fields may make a Canadian tour following a visit to New York on private business.

The Lancashire lass told British newspapermen when she left London January 9 that she thinks Canadians "make perhaps the most enthusiastic audiences in the world."

FESTIVAL PLANS

The first meeting of the Victoria Drama Festival will take place next Friday at 8 p.m. in the Community Drama office at 506 Government Street.

Sir Robert Holland will act as chairman.

An election of officers will take place and all those interested in making the 1951 Drama Festival a complete success are asked to attend this meeting.

Riel Rebellion Veteran Dies

A veteran of the 7th Fusiliers, of London, Ont., who fought in the Riel Rebellion, S. Alfred Jones, 86, Newport Avenue, died yesterday.

Mr. Jones, for many years a barrister and magistrate in Brantford, Ont., where he was born, came to Victoria in 1940. He was a descendant of the United Empire Loyalists.

He is survived by his widow, Emily, at home, a son, Stephen M. Jones, 3382 Lincoln Avenue and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m., Tuesday, January 18, at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel. Rev. Dr. A. E. Whitehouse will officiate. Interment will be in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Scouts Helping With Search

Senior Scouts in the Saanich area made a wide search yesterday afternoon for missing 40-year-old Mrs. Lillian May Lane, 3421 Cook Street.

Saanich police said the Scouts started about noon and scoured the Lost Lake and Swan Lake areas but could find no trace of the woman.

Mrs. Lane, who has a husband and one child at home, weighs 145 pounds, was wearing a tweed coat when last seen, has light brown hair and grey eyes and wears glasses.

Anyone with information as to her whereabouts is asked to telephone Saanich police at G 8321.

History of Land Sale Shows Agreements

Major J. Gordon Smith, author of the following article on land dealings with British Columbia Indians, is well known as a newspaper man of great ability, an author, traveler and, up until 1942, Commissioner of the British Columbia Government Travel Bureau. During his 30 years with the British Columbia Government he visited nearly every corner of the province and while in the Department of Lands had access to all files concerning the acquisition and conveyance of Provincial lands.

Major Smith was once a noted member of The Colonist staff and also served as a war correspondent with The Associated Press, Reuters, and as foreign correspondent with The London Daily Mail.

With the controversy now raging over the disposition of Indian lands in early days, Major Smith now gives historical background to the claim by Chief Andrew Paull, North Vancouver, president of the North American Brotherhood, that the Provincial Government still owns the Indians for 348,000 acres of British Columbia land.

By MAJOR GORDON SMITH

Whether or not the agreements made by the factor of the Company of Gentlemen Adventurers Trading into Hudson's Bay with the several chieftains of Indians occupying the land on which the city of Victoria and surrounding municipalities are situated can be considered as treaties, there is evidence that agreements were made whereby, in exchange for blankets, muskets and other trade goods selected by the untutored natives a century ago, the chiefs appended their marks to conveyance of the lands claimed by them to the Hudson's Bay Company.

When the Hudson's Bay Company built Fort Albert—later Fort Victoria—on the present site of Victoria, the fur-traders considered the land belonged to the company by virtue of the charter granted by King Charles to his royal cousin Rupert. This charter gave to Prince Rupert, and the company formed by him, domain over "all lands not held for any Christian prince with their trade and resources" in the North American continent.

CHARTER GRANTED

In 1849 an Act of the British Parliament made Vancouver Island a Crown colony. Parliament also granted a charter whereby the Island passed virtually to the fur-trading company.

During the ensuing year—between April 19, 1850, and April 30, 1851—the Hudson's Bay Company made a series of agreements with the chiefs of tribes controlling a considerable portion of southern Vancouver Island and Saanich Peninsula. The chiefs agreed, in return for goods selected from the shelves in the store of the fort, to sign over large areas to the company.

For little more than $2,000 the fur-traders acquired the land now occupied by Victoria, several adjoining municipalities and further areas in the unorganized territory beyond the municipalities. These lands are now valued at many millions of dollars.

These agreements, described in a report of a Royal Commission on Indian Lands, each said:

"The condition or understanding of this sale is this, that our village sites of enclosed fields are to be kept for our own use, for the use of our children, and for those who may follow after us, and that land shall be properly surveyed hereafter. It is understood, however, that the land itself, with these small exceptions, becomes the entire property of the white people forever; it is also understood that we are at liberty to hunt over the unoccupied lands and to carry on our fisheries as formerly."

For the site of Victoria the Indian chiefs received goods worth £75. The agreement on this covered "the peninsula south of Goldstre" For the area reaching from Clover Point to Gonzales Point "north to a line of equal extent passing through the north side of Minies plain" the signatory chieftains were allowed to select blankets and other goods to value of 30 sogereigns. The region between Gonzales Point and Cedar Hill was turned over by the agreement of sale by two chiefs for goods to value of £75 and ten shillings. The Indians got goods worth £52 and ten shillings for the Esquimalt peninsula, Colquitz and Lake districts, and goods valued at £27 and ten shillings for a belt ten miles wide between Esquimalt and Albert Head.

These agreements of sale were duly recognized by the first Governor of Vancouver Island, Richard Blanshard, who arrived early in 1850. The Factor of the Hudson's Bay Company shortly thereafter presented him with the bill for goods turned over to the Indians for the conveyance of their lands "to become the property of the white people forever."

BILL SUBMITTED

The bill submitted to the Governor was for $2,757. It set out that $2,120 of this amount was to pay for the trade goods "supplied to the Indians to extinguish their title to lands about Victoria and Sooke harbors." Governor Blanshard accepted the bill and forwarded it to the Secretary for the Colonies of Britain.

Governor Blanshard commented "that the Company might within the next three years continue to give away a few goods to Indians 'to extinguish their right to the soil,' and, by attaching an ideal value, appear as creditors of the Colony to overwhelming extent."

Governor Blanshard resigned after holding the governorship for eight months.

appointment in 1851—the year the last of the agreements were made—instructed the Colony's Surveyor-General to lay out a townsite in the environs of Fort Victoria and set out street lines. The Uplands, Langford, Constance Cove and Macaulay farms were established on portions of the lands acquired from the Indian chiefs.

All Live Talent At Music Hour

An all live-talent musical program and a color film with a music theme will make up the regular Sunday evening "music hour" at 8 p.m. tonight at the Y.M.C.A.

Featured will be Mrs. Sheila Munro, soprano, whose song-group will include selections from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," tenor James McVie, with Gilbert and Sullivan songs, and Mrs. Helen McVie, pianist.

The color movie is entitled "The Story of the Violin."

"Y" officials report that the display of copper tooling now on exhibition at the Just-Rite Studios is causing considerable interest.

The work on display was done by the first-term students of the Y.M.C.A. copper craft class.

Tommy Tweed Satire Worth Price of Radio

THIS WEEK'S RADIO

By RAY BAINES

is to point to what is coming. This time, however, we would like to turn around briefly and review something that has passed.

Those who heard last Sunday's Stage 51 presentation of Tommy Tweed's "The Man from Number Ten" don't have to be told what a bang-up job it was.

But if the Andrew Allen production is ever aired again, let those who were playing Canasta bend an ear. It's one of the finest satires on the Canadian scene ever contrived.

The show had Leacock's witty insight into Canadian maners, the saniness of S. J. Perelman and, at times, the satirical barrage of an early Sinclair Lewis novel.

When someone like Tommy Tweed gets hold of an idea like this one, the result is not only funny, but thought-provoking. A man from Newfoundland (Number Ten) talks to various representatives of the Canadian way of life—radio, newspaper, civil service and political persons, with a view to taking home a survey of what Canada is.

SHOCKINGLY EXAGGERATED

What he hears (much narrated, some acted out), shockingly exaggerated, are the weaknesses, petty rivalries, peculiarities of most aspects of Canadian life.

The C.B.C. version of the private radio station and the private radio station's version of the C.B.C. are alone worth the price of a radio.

There may be a lot of arguments against public-owned radio networks, but when they can foster the production of such humorous self-effacement, the listener certainly benefits.

The flavor of the production was, for some, almost too ridiculous to be considered true satire. But nevertheless there was a sting in many of the lines. A lot of people were laughing but a few stuffed shirts maybe felt a little warm around the ears.

BETTER THAN BIG-TIME

For our money, this production and the wonderful radio adaptation of Dr. Paul Heibert's "Sara Binks" are worth more than ten whole networks full of big-time funnymen.

The ability to laugh at one's self occasionally is as good for a nation as it is for an individual. And some of the fun-poking was aimed at the very guys who are paying Tweed's salary.

For a birthday present, we would like two L.P. records if they could be bought. "The Man from Number Ten" and "Sara Binks" would be a good tonic when we went to buy our newspaper, tune in our radio, sing our national anthem, attend our next service club dinner or cast our next vote.

SCHEDULE CHANGES

January is the month when radio stations get their kilocycles dusted. Certain changes in program schedules usually follow the decrease in high-priced sponsorship which keeps things hopping over the Christmas and New Year period.

Station CJVI is no exception to the first-of-the-year housecleaning.

Victorians will be glad to hear that their favorite British entertainer, Gracie Fields, starts a new program over CJVI Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. Produced in London, the show will feature Canada's Bernie Braden, who went to England to emcee the thing. Music by the Keynotes and highly-rated Billy Ternent orchestra should round out what would seem to be top-drawer entertainment.

Another new show is yet to be announced by the Imperial Tobacco Company which is moving the Guy Lombardo show to Wednesday at 9:30 p.m.

GRACIE FIELDS

The sponsors are playing cagey about the program. Advance publicity says it's terrific and highly adult. The new show, whatever it is, will be heard over CJVI to start sometime near the end of the month.

AIDS ORCHESTRA

A lot of people have been talking about the current sad financial state of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. We would like to pay a small tribute to a very sincere young local woman who believes in sharing her good fortune.

Winner of the recent CJVI "Six for One" jackpot of $431, Miss Dorothy Hearn, 2372 Zela Street, intends to give a good portion of it to the Victoria Symphony Society and the Victoria Theatre Guild. She is a member of both groups.

Miss Hearn appeared in the Theatre Guild production "I Remember Mama" which was presented last November. Incidentally, we think that we would have given her the cash even if she hadn't answered any of the questions. She sounds so nice over the telephone.

TOUGH JOB

Being a straight - from - the - shoulder sports analyst is a tough job. So is that of a hockey referee. But if you try to do both, you are likely to end up in a fray.

Edmonton-born Leo Ornest, heard over CJVI Thursday nights, doubles as a referee for the Commercial Hockey League.

As a radio commentator, Leo sounds off intelligently at civic officials, sportsmen, fans when they do something he doesn't like. As a hockey referee apparently he better hadn't.

Copper Tooling Put on Display

The first display of copper tooling and jewelry craft ever seen in Victoria is now on display at Jus-Rite Photos on Yates Street.

All the work has been done by members of the Y.M.C.A. craft class in the last three months.

Program director Bob Morrison said yesterday that new classes are starting for this type of work and are held every Monday night at 7:30.

Instructor in copper work is Lloyd Sinclair and Mrs. Sinclair teaches jewelry handicraft.

B.C. 'Flu Epidemic Unlikely Health Officials Assert

BRITISH Columbia is enjoying comparative peace from influenza as the illness sweeps across Western Europe. The Provincial Health Department reported Saturday that 'flu cases this year are fewer than the ten-year average for the province. Only one case was investigated this month.

There is little likelihood of the 'flu becoming epidemic in British Columbia this year although the disease is most prevalent during the Winter months.

A health official admitted that the disease could be spread to British Columbia from Europe, but added that greater medical knowledge and improved facilities would prevent a recurrence of the 1918-1919 epidemic that struck here.

THESPIANS BUSY

PARKSVILLE — Rehearsals will get under way soon for three one-act plays to be presented by Parksville Players as their second dramatic offering here.

Two of the plays and casts were chosen at a recent meeting of the group held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Keep.

A comedy entitled "Scrambled Eggs" will be directed by Mrs. R. Strange and Mrs. Eileen Allwood will direct a play written by a well-known Canadian playwright and author Robertson Davies. A third play is still to be chosen.

The group voted to join the drama society of the University of British Columbia Extension Department.

In the absence of President A. E. Forrester, Miss Verna McDonald presided and Miss Dorothea Laramie was secretary.

Two amusing plays presented at Parksville in December will be performed at Coombs this month if arrangements can be made, the club decided.

I sent her back to her husband with the Tani porters, who had stayed with me long enough to mold and burn brick for the foundation and lower walls of a hospital that could be kept clean of vermin. They also piped spring water down from a nearby hill. I shared it with the village of N'Titierte, and earned the gratitude of both men and women for my "infant river."

We started a school, too, with Aganza as teacher. At first only two of N'Derfi's sons attended. We printed books in Hausa by hand. I supplied the textual material at first and, being a soul without much imagination, I ran through the exceedingly brief gamut of domestic animals and common birds—and then Aganza took over. Her first product was a fairy tale.

The day Aganza showed this copybook to her two pupils, the circle of curious young onlookers tightened, pressed forward, sank down onto their haunches—and thus informally enrolled themselves in the first mission school in Big Bush.

And it was with the young men from among these pupils whom Mother Aganza loved and paddled into some state of formal knowledge that my superiors on the African staff sowed literacy throughout the country to the north and west of Big Bush not so very many years later.

It was Aganza, too, who worked out a system of securing nurses for my growing hospital. We charged no fee, but Mother Aganza demanded personal service in return for medical attention. Some of the boys liked the work we set them at so much that they stayed on and eventually studied medicine under Mother Aganza's direction.

One boy eventually went to the University of Chicago and worked on my brother's farm during the vacations. Today he is known and respected throughout Africa. And many a doctor whose skin was blanched by providence of God at birth reads his learned articles in medical journals, never dreaming that their author once sacrificed to tribal fetishes.

When N'Derfi asked me why I did not straighten out Job's twisted limbs as I had Lali's, he planted a seed in my mind that grew and vexed me almost daily. N'Derfi seemed satisfied with the explanation I gave him at the moment, but many times I noticed him watching my gnarled servant sidling along like a monstrous land crab, and then looking at me with open question in his eyes. N'Derfi was a good and honest friend of mine in deed as well as in word. It was he who secured an invitation from the Council of Old Men for me to assist in the funeral obsequies of their chief. It was a signal honor and I appreciated it as such. And, as I helped to coat the royal body with clay and bind it in the funeral mats, I finally understood why I had never been permitted to look upon him in life. The man—everyone had called him old, but he was so mutilated by disease I could never have guessed his age—was a leper.

Leprosy is one of the scourges of the tropical belt of the Dark Continent, and the civil administration in our territory, in attempting to deal with it, has established leper colonies at various points. But the natives hate segregation and fear the camps, so that whenever an official visits a village, the lepers disappear as if by magic. The black man is voluble, not to say garrulous, but he can keep a secret, and no one, not even N'Derfi, not ever Job or Aganza, if they had chanced upon the knowledge, had betrayed the villagers' prime secret.

As the village emerged from its funeral stupor, three things happened almost simultaneously. First a ceremonial lion hunt was set up, and since I had been an honored member of the funeral cortege, my boys were invited to share in the hunt. All accepted with alacrity with the exception of Job, and his refusal was taken as indication of cowardice. Even I questioned him.

"I am not afraid, mama," he assured me earnestly. "It is just that my people do not hunt lions. They are elephant hunters. Now if there is an elephant you wish me to destroy . . ."

The village, men, women, and children, howled with derisive laughter, but I believed Job. After all, he was a Batawa, a man from the deep rain forests where there are elephants aplenty but no lions.

He might, however, have spared himself much by simple acceptance to the lion hunt, for it was a "ceremonial" hunt; that is, a pantomimic dance. My N'Titierteans were famed all over West Africa as lion hunters, but for some strange reason there had been no real lion hunt from this village in a generation.

The second event was Jackie's marriage to the granddaughter of the old chief. He paid the equivalent of five goats for the girl—a good, round price—and the village feasted for a day at my expense.

Uncle Wiggily Story

By Howard Garis

BIG SNOWSTORM

Far down under the big snowdrift, Uncle Wiggily and his friends could hear Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear, digging his way to their rescue. Uncle Wiggily's friends who were with him in the snowdrift were Uncle Fat Butter the grocery goat and Mr. Turfbog, a jolly English bulldog.

The three could hear Mr. Whitewash scooping away big chunks of snow with his paws as he dug deeper and deeper into the drift to let them come out. Uncle Wiggily, Uncle Butter and Mr. Turfbog could hear the polar bear sniff, snuff and scup every now and then as he paused in his snow digging. And, as he sniffed, snuffed and scupped, Mr. Whitewash would say:

"I can smell that snow pudding better than ever now."

"That's because you are coming closer to it the more you dig," called up Uncle Wiggily through the top of the drift. The top of the big snowdrift was getting thinner and thinner with every scoop of the polar bear's front paws which were like two shovels.

"I hope there is some of that snow pudding left for me," said Mr. Whitewash as he paused a moment to shake snow out of his left ear. "I just love snow pudding, Wiggy!"

"Yes, Whitie, there is some snow pudding left," answered Uncle Wiggily. "Not as much as you might wish, for I had only a small pail in which to mix the snow, eggs, sugar and vanilla flavor."

"Oh, well, a little snow pudding will do me for a while," said the polar bear. "And when I get you out of the drift, Wiggy, you can make snow pudding, can't you?"

"I have no more eggs, sugar or vanilla," said the rabbit uncle.

"We can go to my grocery and get a lot of eggs, sugar and vanilla," bleated Uncle Butter.

"That will be fine and dandy," said Mr. Whitewash as he started digging the snow again. "I'll soon have you out of the drift, Wiggy, you and your friends."

"Thank you, Whitie," answered Mr. Longears as he twinkled his pink nose. "I have been here so long that my wife and Nurse Jane will be wondering where I am."

"You will soon be safe at home, Wiggy. But on the way maybe we can stop at Uncle Butter's store and get the things to make more snow pudding. Can we, Wiggy?"

"Right, Whitie," said the rabbit gentleman. And Mr. Turfbog said:

"I say, Wiggy, you dear old turnip top, will you teach me how to make snow pudding? Then I can go back to England and surprise my doggie friends."

"Yes, Turfy, you dear old baked bean, I will teach you," Uncle Wiggily promised.

Suddenly the big snow room in the drift grew lighter. Mr. Whitewash had broken through the roof and now Uncle Wiggily and his friends could get out. The polar bear made a sort of runway, like a slanting cellar door, up which the rabbit, goat and bulldog could walk to the top. Once more they were out under the sky.

"Here is all the snow pudding that is left, Whitie," said Uncle Wiggily, passing the pail to the polar bear, who said:

"Oh, thank you, Wiggy. There isn't much, but I am thankful for what there is." Soon he had eaten the last of the snow pudding. Then Mr. Whitewash said: "Now all three of you get on my back and I will ride you to Uncle Butter's store. Then you can make a lot of snow pudding. Wiggy, I'll treat!"

Soon they were in the grocery. With plenty of eggs, and some milk and lots of sugar and a whole bottle of vanilla flavoring, Uncle Wiggily made a big pail of snow pudding. They were sitting around in chairs eating it when, suddenly, Mr. Turfbog looked out a window and said:

"My word! Here's a jolly big snowstorm! It's a blizzard! We shall be snowed in the grocery!"

I'll tell you in the next story just what happened, but I hope the rubber boots don't get caught in a snowstorm coming from the movies and have to go back and stay all night.

Culbertson On Bridge

(Copyright, 1951, by Ely Culbertson)

Many of the advanced plays at bridge — squeezes, grand coups, throw-ins, etc.—are not sure to succeed under any or all circumstances; their true values lies in creating a chance or increasing an already-existing possibility.

Take the following deal for example, as written up some time ago by J. C. Stabelein in The Bridge World magazine.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 10 5 4
♥ 6 5
♦ 8 7 5 4 2
♣ A 8 4

WEST
♠ J 2
♥ Q J 10 7
♦ J 9
♣ Q J 7 6 3

EAST
♠ K Q 9 7 3
♥ 9 4 3 2
♣ 10 2

SOUTH
♠ A 8 6
♥ A K 8
♦ A K Q 10
♣ K 9 5

The bidding is unimportant, since East-West do not compete. The only pertinent fact is that South plays a contract of five diamonds. Three no-trump would be easy, but South tried for a slam and thus landed at the five-level in his good minor suit.

West opens the heart queen, and declarer's problem is immediately obvious: how can he avoid the loss of two spades and one club?

In the actual case, South drew trumps and ruffed his losing heart in dummy, but after that he simply surrendered.

There is precisely one chance for South to salvage a spade or club loser, and that is by an elimination-and-throw-in play. He must hope for a favorable break in the black suits, and, as it happens, he gets it! The right (and winning) line of play is to draw trumps, to eliminate the heart suit by cashing the top cards and ruffing the third round, and then to concede a spade trick before cashing the ace. Regardless of the opponents' shifts when they win the spade trick, South then cashes the spade ace and his two top clubs. When he next exits with a spade or a club, the defender who takes the trick must lead a card which will let South discard a loser from dummy or his own hand while he ruffs the trick in the other hand. That is, East wins the spade and has no club to return; or West wins the club, and has no more spades.

Shower of Dimes

By Dorothy Wroinowski, Social Editor

Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman

Umbrellas to catch the "Shower of Dimes" will be a familiar sight to Victorians again this year as the Solarium Junior League launches its campaign for the crippled children. Above: Miss Shirley Wallace, a member of the hard-working committee, is pictured with one of the umbrellas she will decorate for the shower.

The annual province-wide "Shower of Dimes," a direct appeal to the public for funds to maintain the Queen Alexandra Solarium, sponsored by the Solarium Junior League, will commence on January 19.

The Solarium is devoted exclusively to the care and treatment of crippled children, and no restrictions are made as to race, color or creed, and no child is refused admittance because of the parents' inability to pay.

General maintenance is costly and the $240,000 budget of 1950 is expected to be increased this year. B.C. Hospital Insurance covers each child for the first 30 days in the Solarium, in most cases only a small percentage of coverage of expenses.

Mrs. D. Forrest, a member of the committee, helps with the typing.

Joel and Timothy, two of the little patients who received treatment last year at the Solarium. Joel, who had a skin condition, and Timothy, born with a shortened leg, have recently been discharged.

Mrs. J. H. Lawson, left, and Mrs. J. W. English, two members of the committee, mail folders telling of the campaign. Miss Peggy Wharton is convener of the "Shower," and other members of the committee not pictured include: Mrs. J. H. Allison, Miss Iris Birchall, Miss Helen Hill, Miss Shirley Simpson and Miss Joan Hodge.

There are regular school hours for the patients at the Solarium, and three teachers are employed by the Department of Education. Above: Mrs. Ellen Reay, Miss Peggy Wharton, Mrs. F. Mrs. Rosalie V. Cameron

—"Personality of the Week"

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Two and two is two makes four, or is more precise. There are some who find even the existence of mathematics downright terrifying.

But not Mrs. Rosalie Cameron. In fact Mrs. Cameron finds anything remotely akin to mathematics fascinating. She thinks working with figures can be artistic, creative.

To her a statement of accounts ready for filing, bookkeeping is also poetry and the composition of a letter is creation.

Mrs. Cameron has only been in Victoria two years and in that time has risen from a beginner's position in the civil service to secretary to the deputy minister of labor.

Her promotion to the secretariat is service to other business executives. In other words it does a "custom job" for other firms.

Mrs. Cameron had considered an enterprise where her management experience would be useful to small businesses as well. Again, in the small offices, she began as Secretariat which has now expanded to three officers and a staff of five.

AN ORPHAN

It is said by those that Lee Cameron was born in the West. She was born in Toronto, was an orphan, and went to Toronto schools.

Lee didn't waste much time for as soon as she was through school, she got right down to business put her heart into it, and has been there ever since. Attractive bereaved Mrs. Cameron has one motto for success. "Labor omnia vincit," or as the Britons would have said, "Work Hard."

Lee took her first job in 1926 as a filing clerk in a large Toronto firm. Now as she studied university courses in accounting.

Her next job was with an equipment firm as a stenographer, and while there she branched into accounting.

In 1931 she joined a large rubber company as a bookkeeping clerk and in two years was superintendent of Accounts Receivable.

When a war industry was started in Scarborough for making armament Lee was the first person to be hired. The plant employed 1,200 people. She began as secretary to the general manager and in a year had become operating office manager. She organized the payroll duties and standard practice procedures as it progressed the operating division of the plant.

MANAGER AT 25

In 1943 Lee took time out to be married and then joined the new Toronto office of the world's largest marketing research firm. Again she was the first employee hired. With this firm she was office manager in charge of personnel, general administration, and accounting.

She was twenty-five years old at the time.

Added to her other jobs there she had to buy all equipment and set up the entire accounting system.

Mrs. Cameron decided to come West in 1948 and now lives here dancing and tennis as Mr. Cameron is only dominant at the moment. She belongs to the Business and Professional Women's Club and her secret ambition is to write, not the great novel, but as a means of relaxing from office cares.

We cannot think of anyone better qualified to do it because not only does she know what two and two makes, but she has imagination as well.

HER RECIPE

Lee confesses that she originally got this recipe for Banana Cake from her baker and has become her favorite cake.

½ cup butter
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sour milk
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup crushed bananas
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix except for bananas as for [illegible]

Weather Ship St. Catharines Due To Reach Esquimalt Early Today

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

The weather-ship St. Catharines is due to tie up at her Esquimalt jetty about 10 a.m. today, according to T. E. Morrison, Victoria agent for the Department of Transport.

Reporting from Station Peter 900 miles west of Cape Flattery, the St. Catharines was relieved on station at midnight last Thursday by the Stonetown, commanded by Capt. J. W. McMonagle.

The St. Catharines, commanded by Capt. J. A. Sergy, then continued to Victoria and Vancouver before proceeding to Esquimalt harbor.

Sleek Passenger Vessels Giving Way to New Class

By LES RIMES

WITH the retirement of the Aorangi from the deep-sea ranks Victoria loses the last of its ocean passenger liners. Gone are the great white Empresses and now the Aorangi.

It is not so much a case of the passenger trade as it is freight. The Aorangi and Orion are [illegible] vessels are handling the passenger trade and the fast cargo freighters are carrying the cargoes.

But there is a limit to the number that may be given passenger [illegible] ing to a seaport. The length of the ship, the depth of water and the facilities which the port has for ships all must be considered.

It was little more than a decade when the Empress of Australia came

Caribbean Islands Resorts Quit Millionaire Class

By JOHN CASE

THE Caribbean Island resorts, until recently out of the holiday range of most Canadian families, have now come within the budget of the average family. As the proportion of millionaires declined, both the high cost of transportation and cost of living in the resorts themselves came tumbling down.

A good example of new fields now open to Mr and Mrs Canada is Nassau, once known as Montagues Playground. A five-room villa set among shady palms glorious bougainvillea blossoms and a host of other tropical flowers can accommodate a family of five persons comfortably for as little as $1200 per person for a whole week, a rate a most deal cheaper than the average Canadian or American beach hotel.

NEW DEVELOPMENT

This new development, the first exclusive for a whole family of moderate income is the brain child of Jack Shellan an Englishman who gathered a fortune in the engineering and entertainment fields and then turned his talent and energy to the resort business.

Realizing the pressing need for such facilities in a Southern paradise he built an estate in a beautifully landscaped setting and named the ten cottages Villas The Palmdale Villa Estate. Each has a screened porch, roof of highly polished aluminum lined with rosewood and designed to deflect 80 per cent of the ultra rays and energy-saving furniture.

ALL SUPPLIED

Each villa has a lounge, two double bedrooms with shower and bath tastefully and a spacious kitchen equipped with an electric washing machine, stove refrigerator and electric ironing equipment. Much of the upholstery and drapery is done in plastic material, to facilitate cleaning and the linen, English china Sheffield cutlery and glasses are provided. There is also a radio and gramophone in each home.

And if Mrs Canada wants a real vacation, away from all household chores, all cleanliness is guaranteed in attendance for $10 a week.

Cleanliness is not the only feature of the development. Nursery facilities and doctors are available on request. Also extra charge and baseball, tennis, cricket and basketball facilities are available nearby.

The resort is situated in a traffic free area and five minutes [illegible]

THERE IS AMPLE SPACE for [illegible]

a private beach for private bathing [illegible]

Air time fares between Montreal and Nassau, normally $190 return, for adults and $90 for children between six and 12 years of age are generally reduced to about $120 for a Dudes period running between June 1 and October 1.

All in all, it means that for less than $400 a family of two adults and three children can spend three weeks with pay in Palmdale Villa in Nassau.

Queer Queries

By ROBERT E. HARRIS

THE head of the Dominion Agriculture Department's office of information is a man who knows from first-hand experience that "people are funny." Each year the staff answers over a million questions put to them by puzzled United States citizens. The majority of these queries are plain and straightforward but a few give the department's experts some trying moments plus a number of chuckles.

For example, one very serious farmer wanted the office to tell him if his animals could catch Spring fever and if so what was the best medicine and treatment he could give them.

A fisherman wondered if salt could be made from codfish.

One woman wrote in to ask if they count ten for what color eye potatoes have.

Another worried female came to the [illegible] fund of knowledge when she asked if it has been made into a sweater.

One film wizard motion picture executive phoned long distance from his studio to get information on where the department's memorial cemetery was located. It seems that one favorite cow actress had just passed away and he was anxious to give her a decent and fitting burial.

Other amusing questions which have been posed at the experts include one from a woman who was searching for spots where pure fresh air could be found. Another was from a man who wanted seeds for a plant which would grow food to make a person smart.

Wonder if the department could tell us how the Chinese get those little dickens to weave all that beautiful silk.

NURSERY RHYME

People must learn to give me
President Peron.
I love little Peron his beef is so nice
And if I don't hurt him he'll send me a mice.
I won't pull his leg, or call Rita a pig,
Then rations from butchers will be twice as big.

BACK TO WORK

LIKE the miners (and who can blame them?) I was one in getting back to work after the Christmas holidays.

First there was the job of clearing up the desk, covered, as it was, with appeals to feed the starving Chinese, invitations to write love letters for magazines, a request to contribute verses for a charade and a demand to give an opinion on a short story written by a 13-year-old girl, an appeal to promote Homing Pigeons for pigs, a telephone request for money to help the underprivileged doggies of Asia, and a note of thanks (though none of us had given her any) from a lady who must have eaten her third Christmas dinner in my room.

Then there was trouble with Tum and Liver. After nursing overtime for three days they were reluctant to snap back into form.

Dr Gubbins, their chief medical adviser, went down one of those of soothers and stimulants alternatively with the result that both were in a state of revolt by Thursday.

HAPPY DAYS

Old Moore Gubbins, the world-famous astrologer offers his usual unreliable prophecies for the New Year.

If the weather experts say JANUARY will be cold it is likely to be mild. If they say it will be mild look out for show has died first. During the month Stalin will say "All I want is peace."

FEBRUARY the influenza month will live up to its reputation. Russian actresses will fill the newspapers with abnormally depressing news which you can read in bed with a high temperature during mystare hue, eats. During this month Moscow will say "All I want is peace."

If a meat agreement is not signed with the Argentine by MARCH, there will be carrier according to rat but eggs. As most of the eggs will have travelled a long way before you get them, they are likely to make you retch, particularly after your severe attack of influenza. The weather will be terrible too. During this month Vishinsky will say "All I want is peace."

In APRIL, when people of the northern hemisphere are usually made cheerful by the sound of the cuckoo and the smell of blossom the defence Budget will chuck more taxpayers out for the count. Stalin will say again "All I want is peace."

The taxpayers will recover consciousness in the merry month of MAY, with no money left to spend at the Festival of Britain. Russia will begin Spring manoeuvres a [illegible] Moscow will repeat "All we want is peace."

East winds are a very probable in flaming JUNE. If they [illegible] your weak and impoverished condition, you are likely to get another dose of flu. Maybe something worse. Russia will start naval manoeuvres. Stalin, Molotov and Vishinsky will say "All we want is peace."

If a general election has not already occurred, JULY is a likely month for this peculiar form of misery. Shop loitering from you; two attacks of flu and with the rain coming out you will be involved in bitter arguments with friends and possibly cracked on the nose by some of them. The enemy force a Fifth Kremlin will shout "All we want is peace."

Most people think about holidays in AUGUST. It is time you can think again. We must of your funds [illegible] entanglements with glass of beer and collect to the bad news of the Communist situation which usual [illegible] water and the harvests around. Mr Wu, the Chinese Communist will say "All I want is peace."

In SEPTEMBER there will be no [illegible] all. If there was no meat agreement you'll have to live on oatmeal and roast peahens. In OCTOBER the oysters and peacocks will be [illegible] and have to open a can of sardines and boiled swans. In NOVEMBER we shall be making a [illegible] about the price of [illegible] we may never get. Mr Wu, the Hunanitarian Communist will say "How! We want his peace."

For DECEMBER Old Moore Gubbins can only wish you another Merry Christmas and say "Peace to hall I want, too."

Tips for Teens

QUICKEST, easiest way to brush up on correct table manners is with the new booklet published by the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts of America. It's called "Good Manners . . . Your Ticket to Popularity" and the chapter on table manners includes the following:

"1. Sandwiches—Fingers are okay for small sandwiches, cut layer cakes. Hamburgers and frankfurters in rolls may be eaten uncut at barbecues, etc. Cut a three-decker before tackling it unless you like to live dangerously.

"2. Ice Cream—Take only enough on your spoon to swallow, and swallow it, don't lick.

"3. Bread or Rolls—When you were a kid you spread a whole slice with butter. Now you break off a bite or two at a time and butter it.

"4. Soup—Don't blow on it; don't crumble bread and crackers into it. (Oyster crackers and croutons are all right to float on top.) Sip it away from you, not toward you. If you must tip the plate, tip it away from you."

When you're invited to dinner at a friend's or date's home, the booklet suggests that you just watch the hostess, your friend's mother, and use whatever fork she uses. If you have an accident, just say you're sorry and let her take care of it or tell you what to do.

If you're a boy, pull out the chair for the girl or woman on your right and wait her before taking your place. Wait for your hostess before starting to eat. Sit straight—no elbows on the table, no reaching, no sliding down in your chair.

Guests often volunteer to help with the dishes and have fun clearing up together. This gives the hostess a chance to rest and relax, she's done her part.

How to Make a Cup of Tea Subject for an Argument

TEA is a drink to which the English are more than partial, and about which they disagree violently. Arguments of great heat can occur at the extent of the strength which the perfect brew is reached; how much tea should be used per person; how long it should be allowed to draw, whether milk should be put in first, and whether one should add a fifth. Patrick Bergin, driven himself into the controversy when he spoke about tea in a radio program. Next April the London tea auctions will be reopened and, Bergin said, that "is a bit by an important thing in London's commercial life. Since the war all tea has been bought and distributed by the Government, and the only [illegible] having tea has been in abeyance. Now that tea supplies are improving sellers will have to come to Britain the largest buyer of tea in the world and expert private buyers should be able to secure better [illegible] teas for us.

MEN BUTLERS

All tea buyers Mr Sargent revealed, are men although women do more tea drinking. Before the auction the buyers taste samples of all teas to be sold and they, as an example to warring housewives, agree almost unanimously on how to make a pot of tea. First of all they weigh the tea carefully. The weight of a standing should give enough tea for a half-pint pot. This pot should be warmed lightly on the stove, the tea put in and freshly boiling water added. It is important, tea tasters maintain, to use freshly boiling water, otherwise the leaves will not [illegible] the tea and draw in the right way. The tea must be left to draw for six minutes and [illegible] with milk but no sugar. Most experts in [illegible] teach [illegible] sugar. Another fact that Sargent discussed is that water is more important than taste in appreciating tea. The palate registers the tasting out, it is the delicate aroma creeping up the [illegible] from the back of the throat that gives most pleasure.

When the tasters have sampled the teas they go to the [illegible] and bid for those they consider best suited to the blend they have planned. Sargent found it impossible to predict exactly what [illegible] when the auctions began, because, he thought that as competition usually leads to cheaper goods [illegible] tea services. It was reasonable to hope that an era of better tea drinking in Britain was at hand.

Standard dimensions of cold frames are six feet by twelve feet. These can be covered with regulation sash or glass substitutes available. These are not breakable but are less transparent. Cold frames are heated by the heat of the sun and hot beds are heated from below. Cold frames are invaluable to the gardener to force early seedlings and to shelter seedlings over winter.

Frames should be placed on a site that is well drained and be fully exposed to the sun for forcing purposes. Protection from high winds is desirable and it is important to locate them convenient to the house water supply.

TRANSATLANTIC ASPECTS OF CURLING

A couple of months ago we printed a letter from Pete Martin. Somebody [illegible] Post staff writer, who said he'd rather find a new edition of a G. A. Henty book than discover the most glamorous Hollywood actress.

He offered to buy old Henty volumes from Victoria readers who were asked to write him at the Post, Philadelphia, giving [illegible] names and dates on the title page.

This department backed Mr. Martin to the hilt, expressed [illegible] knowledge that the writer had [illegible] a number in the "right" [illegible].

Since then Mr. Martin has written another letter, and we [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] over to him since [illegible]. He writes:

"If anyone is ever [illegible] to be [illegible] the owner of the Victoria Colonist [illegible] refer them to me and I will [illegible] give the [illegible] market report.

"Since you prepared my letter about my quest for books by G. A. Henty, interest every day has [illegible] me letters from British Columbia offering me Henty wares. One kind soul even shipped and sent along your column a list of [illegible] books I appreciated every single [illegible] the offer of Henty items.

TWO OF THE original school benches are still preserved. Note the shelf at the top which was used by the student behind as illustrated by the boy in the picture. Pictures of old school teachers, pioneers and pupils hang on the wall.

A GROUP OF PUPILS from the new Craigflower School, seen in background are children's training outdoor lessons on the grounds of the historic old school. Students of long ago school years ago enjoyed outdoor classes in some manner.

THIS WAS the main school room in the original school. Portrait pictures of the Royal Family adorn the walls and the Union Jack is seen hanging at the right of large fireplace.

THIS IS THE PLAQUE which still stands on the original outside wall of the old school. Standing in position is erected "Colonial School," and gives historical data.

CRAIGFLOWER SCHOOL

By GORDON FORBES

THE old Craigflower School, one of the oldest remaining schools in Western Canada is going to have some money spent on it if the Hon. V. Carter's committee is willing.

The Victoria Chapter of the Native Sons and Daughters of B.C. which has undertaken preservation and restoration of the pioneer school has set an objective of $6,000 to carry out the work.

It must be understood that we have no intention of changing the character of the building or the value of the [illegible] Mr. V. Church, chairman of the committee in management.

He said the [illegible] are in favor of the project and [illegible] and the Daughters [illegible] a grant [illegible] the work.

[illegible] was erected in 1853 by the Hudson's Bay Company and was called [illegible] Manor.

Many notable pioneers of the district received their education in the old school. It was named Craigflower after a farm in England which belonged to Andrew Colville [illegible] Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company.

The Native Sons and Daughters intend to equip the school as a museum. At present there are many historical articles in it, and the organization is endeavoring to obtain many more.

The [illegible] school [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible] will be acquired as far as possible [illegible] in the old days.

Theologian Hints Faith Bars Bouts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Dean of Theology at Catholic University where boxing is an outstanding sport, says it may be contrary to Roman Catholic teaching.

Writing in the February issue of "Catholic Men" Rev. Francis J. Connell suggested that ring rules be changed so that the object is "giving and parrying light blows, not with the intention of injuring the opponent, but merely with the purpose of outwitting him in skill, agility and ingenuity."

The theologian said "the Fifth Commandment, as interpreted by the Catholic Church, forbids not only murder, but also the inflicting of bodily injury on a fellow man."

Students at Mount View Win Game, Hear Farey

By DINAH KERR and MARGARET TREDWELL
Mount View High School

Students at Mount View have been receiving a severe type of shock treatment while relaxing and retouching examination results, but the period ended. Everyone, that is, but the gathering throng outside the door. Uncle Ed spent the next ten minutes in autographing everything from an identification card to a badminton racquet.

[illegible] decided to forget the whole nasty business.

ROYS CHEER

On the way into town Marilyn Stubbs drove the popular announcer past a group of cheering boys who were quite obviously strong 'Kaddiekapers' fans.

One happy interlude in the week was the basketball game in which the Mount View senior boys defeated the Normal School, 39-32. Allen Snowsell led the scoring with 18 points. [illegible] displayed excellent teamwork and passing. A lot of the credit is due to Mr. Snowsell, who has done a fine job of coaching the Mount View team.

Another basketball game was played during the week which we won't dwell on except to say that Oak Bay stopped the Mount View Junior girls 48-3!

DISCUSSES RADIO

On Thursday, Ed Farey, program director of CKDA, talked to our journalism class about radio showing in a detailed description how much behind-the-scenes work goes into preparing a program for the air.

When we had exhausted our store of questions, Uncle Ed brought out a commercial and a radio script which three of the students read out. The class found it very interesting and everyone was sorry when the period ended.

WRONG NUMBER

One noon-hour startled students watched six senior girls race out of school and pile into a black Ford.

It wasn't until Marilyn was putting the key in the ignition that she discovered that we were confronted by teacher Mr. Matthews' car. The twin, belonging to Marilyn, was on the other side of it. How vague can you get?

We leave you with this provoking thought:

Mount Douglas High Plans House Concert

By JOYCE JOHNSON
Mount Douglas High School

Students of Mount Douglas have recovered from their Christmas exams and are again back to their [illegible].

Monday at noon hour the students' council met to plan the house concert which will take place next month. The concert consists of each of the three houses presenting at least a 30-minute program. When the concert is finished the staff judges the presentation of each house and awards 30 points to the house that receives the most votes. The second receives 20 votes and the third, 10.

CLUB SPLITS

The girls' Hi-Y Club of the school has divided into two clubs—a senior club and a junior club. This was due to the large increase in membership this year. The division will aid in establishing a more unified Hi-Y in the school. The senior club is limited to students from Grades X, XI and XII, while the junior membership is composed of Grade XI's with a few Grade X's for the executive.

Both clubs have chosen their executives, and are as follows: senior girls—Pat Pitt-Brook, president; Margaret Rose Revell, vice-president; May Wong, secretary-treasurer; Pat Phillips, social committee chairman; Joan Priddle, service committee chairman, and Marian McKinlay, ceremonial committee chairman. Junior girls—Peggy Arwick, president; Margaret Stevenson, vice-president; Valerie Gregg, secretary; Betty Ann McGrath, treasurer. Future projects that will be undertaken by the clubs are the publication of a school paper and the donating of mirrors to the girls' washroom.

DONATE CLOCK

The Boy's Hi-Y has very generously given an electric clock to the school auditorium. They plan on donating a clock every year until every room in the school has one.

The Skeena House pins arrived last week, establishing Skeena as the first house to have house pins made.

Douglas paddled Fraser to a 9-5 victory, in a senior girls ping pong tournament Tuesday after school.

May Wong scored her second "hat trick" of the year in grass hockey Thursday afternoon, when she led Skeena House to a 3-0 shutout over Douglas.

Skeena House remains on top with 78 points, followed by Fraser with 69, and Douglas with 59.

Oak Bay Students Amend Constitution of School

By GAIL O'MEARA
Oak Bay High School

The student governing body of Oak Bay High School held its first meeting of [illegible] Monday afternoon, with President Walter Young in the chair. An amendment to the constitution of O.B.H.S. was approved, giving the Grade IX students the right to vote for Student Council president. In past years only the senior students (Grades X and XI and their halls) at the end of May for the next year's leaders.

Sports representative Richard Pollard explained how the block letters would be awarded under the new point system to the members of the council. The major award will probably be in the form of a big "O," and the minor award a small "O.B." A certain number of points are awarded a student if he plays a house sport or sports, with additional counts if his team wins. Participation in an inter-school sport is, of course, the highest point-getter.

TO REWRITE SONG

The old school song is going to be rewritten and this year hopes restored to the halls of Oak Bay. Marguerite Fairjulls "O.B.H.S. Victory March" will continue to be sung at games, not to mention in the senior girls' locker room. The new school song will arrive in about three weeks. The price will be about 75c to $1.

The Student Council is planning to take over the weekly assemblies and to present something of interest to the students. Guest speakers, movies and reports on student activities are on the agenda for the future. President Young gave a resume of council activities for the year at the assembly [illegible] morning.

Oak Bay's first dance of the new year will be on March 16 and will be a co-ed. The big news is that we will have an orchestra for the first time at this [illegible] co-ed dance.

EDITORS NAMED

The co-editors of the 1950-51 annual were elected Monday. Don Rapanos and Gail O'Meara are the two, with Walt Young, editor of last year's annual, chosen to act in an advisory capacity. The next edition of the [illegible] Leaf is due at the end of January. Valerie Potter, chosen as assistant editor at the beginning of the year will take over the editorship of this issue.

The past week has been filled with excitement and anticipation about the soccer game played at Callister Park in Vancouver against the King Edward boys. Approximately 20 enthusiastic supporters accompanied the team to Vancouver.

London Woman Speaks To City White Cane Club

Federal legislation to aid the sightless across Canada was [illegible] here last week with Victoria representatives of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind when Mrs. S. Bending, of London, Ont., paid a brief visit to the city.

Mrs. [illegible] totally blind herself was guest at a luncheon meeting of the Victoria branch of the White Cane Club.

Mrs. Bending, who is representing the White Cane Clubs of Canada, was welcomed by Eric Hiscock, Victoria director of the C.N.I.B.

She described her visits to 36 White Cane Clubs across Canada. Information from them was passed on to the Victoria branch.

Also a guest at the meeting was Mrs. H. Weldon, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the C.N.I.B.

Drummer Steals Show

Jazz Quintette Performs For Vic High Students

By JEAN WEBSTER
Victoria High [illegible]

At the well-attended jazz concert recently Claire Anderson's orchestra played several popular selections including "I Surrender Dear," "How High the Moon," and "Tenderly." Several enthusiasts from Vic College Jazz Society came down to Vic High for the concert. Featuring Cowie Anderson on trumpet, Bill Hasbrook on tenor, Doug Parker on bass, Buddy Glover at the piano, and Wally Greaves at the drums. The quintette put on a smart performance.

Stealing the show with his clever showmanship and good playing, Wally Greaves was the highlight of the performance when he was featured in "The Vic High Blues." Buddy Glover also displayed finesse at the keyboard and seemed to enjoy every moment of it.

TOTEMS TRAVEL

Although defeated by Vancouver College in a touch-and-go 46-44 performance the Totems haven't lost their good form, as was evident by their victory over Tolhums in a recent exhibition tilt. With games against Naval Reads and Vic College part of their schedule, they should again turn in some creditable performances. Next week-end they journey to Vancouver to tangle with the strong "Kats" team.

As a result of the voting last week, editorial staff of the V.H.S. yearbook, The Camosun, will be composed of Lorraine Brown, Lyle Robertson, Donna Lindlow, Bob Duggan and Eleanor Fletcher. With the co-operation of the students, and under the able sponsorship of Mrs. Hudson, the staff is looking forward to presenting a memorable annual.

SHAKESPEAREAN RECORDS

In recent assemblies, in place of the regular music talks, records from Henry V and Julius Ceasar, narrated by Sir Laurence Olivier were played. Since the plays are [illegible] studied by Grades XI [illegible], respectively the recordings were appreciated and understood by the students.

In the field of Rugby, two senior teams have been formed from which the senior rep team will be chosen. Member of last years squad who will form the backbone of the new team include Bob Clarke, Barry Cavine, Gerry Collison, Ron Mooney and Pete Zarry.

DANCE PLANNED

Featuring Bernie Porter's orchestra the next dance will be the Valentine dance on February 9. Something new will be added, in the form of a male vocalist.

Excavation for the cinder track has begun and it is expected to be completed in time for the track meet in May. The bulk of the funds for the project were donated by the Grad Club, with the School Board and the students' council each donating $1,000.

To be seen about town are the black-and-gold beanies recently purchased by many of the students which are emblematic of lots of school spirit.

'Teen Tastes In Clothes

By DELORES LAVOIE
Victoria High School

Winter skirts 'n' sweaters might be able to do with some pepping up these days and here's one way to add zest is with color-bright weskits. These trig little toppers are the easiest things to stitch up yourself, so are very easy on your after-Christmas budget.

Something new and cute are the weskits of snuggly-soft cashmere-finished wool in the lushest colors. One of these in a bright shade looks perfectly with a tailored blouse and wool jersey skirt.

"Versatile plus" are the reversible plaid-on-one-side, corduroy-on-the-other weskits, to match up with a skirt of the same plaid. A narrow band of tartan fastened with a clan brooch is a favorite new neckline accent for sweaters and blouses.

FUR FABRICS

Weskits of velvet and corduroy, with V or scoop necklines, have long since taken a top place in your wardrobe of casual separates, but now these popular fabrics team up with the new fur fabrics to be worn with your most dress-up clothes. For an exotic touch, try one of those that combine a black velvet back and black buttons with an artificial ermine front.

Those jazzy "bop vests" are turning up in new and often [illegible] colors and fabrics, with some of the mights males sporting them in vivid tartans and checks. One smart version has a pastel gabardine front combined with the dark knitted back. Wool or gabardine shirts with a diagonal zipper are another feature of our man-about-school's wardrobe.

The queerest things dangle from mademoiselle's wrist these days. Merry-go-rounds, jack-in-the-boxes, a well complete with bucket, or a tiny jug of perfume are some of the charms that are attached to her heavy chain bracelet. These large, chunky do-dads are a top jewelry favorite, as are heavy medallions hung on a chain to wear as a pendant.

Students Seek To Increase Society Fees

VICTORIA COLLEGE
By Brian Wharf

At its weekly meeting on Wednesday noon the Students' Council decided to ask the College Council for permission to raise the Alma Mater Society fees from $8 to $10. If the council approves, the matter will go before the School Board. Despite the fact that its A.M.S. fees are the lowest on the Pacific Coast, the college has been persistently blocked in its efforts to raise them.

It was also decided that the college would not sponsor a ski trip this year as the newly formed Ski Club in Victoria is to undertake such a trip.

DANCE DATE SET

The date for the annual co-ed dance was tentatively set for February 15 but the place and the orchestra have yet to be determined.

Rehearsals for the Victoria College Theatre production "Night Must Fall," by Emlyn Williams are now well under way under the direction of Professor Roger Bishop. The play is to be presented February 23 and 24 at the Normal School Auditorium. Cast is as follows:

Supreme Court Justice, Alvin Gardner; Mrs. Bramson, Carol Wilson; Olivia, Evelyn Harvie; Hugh, Ken Leighton; Dora Evans, Mona; Mrs. Terence, Margaret Aiken; Nurse Libby, Barbara Foster; Dan, Michael Rothers; and Inspector Belsize, Pat Thomas.

Dr. Norman Mackenzie, president of U.B.C., was the guest at a tea given by the members of the College Faculty and Students' Council on Monday afternoon. Dr. Mackenzie was the speaker at a University Extension meeting on Monday evening.

The International Relations Club has been invited by the Victoria Branch of the U.N. to form a delegation to present the case of China at a model assembly to be held in the near future.

Cheer Team To Appear At Esquimalt

By KITTY DIXON
Esquimalt High School

The cheer team will make its first public appearance on Tuesday, supporting the boys' senior Rep basketball team. "The Dockers" who will play the Victoria College team. They hope to cheer the team to victory a great many times during the coming school term.

TIMELY TROPHY

The Inter-Class Competition shield will be awarded this month to the class with the least number of "lates." Competition will be based upon a percentage basis. Grade XII, Division I, has won the shield for the past two months.

The Hard-of-Hearing Hall will be the scene of Esquimalt High School's rummage sale on March 24.

LOVING CUP

"Who do you think will win the 'Pitch-Wooing' Cup this year?" is the latest question at E.H.S. It has become the annual custom of Esquimalt High School to award a Pitch-Wooing Cup to the couple who have been "going steady" for the longest time.

The cup, which is a large milk can decorated with the names of the students who have won it in previous years, will be presented at the Valentine open house February 16.

Drama Groups Benefit

Films Shown to Students At North Saanich High

By BARBARA MacCONNACHIE
North Saanich High School

Six movies from the National Film Board were shown this week at the school, and the members of the various drama groups in the school were greatly aided by the film entitled "On Stage."

This film, as well as being entertaining, covered such points as character casting, contrast of character, masking, voice projection, movements while on stage, overacting, stage setting and costuming.

A second film was entitled "How to Build an Igloo" and showed two Eskimos visiting a trading post and making their home for the night. The film showed how the Eskimos cut the large blocks of snow from inside the circle foundation of their igloo and fitted the various blocks together to form the spherical-shaped snow house that we know as the typical igloo.

Another film dealt with the harnessing of water power in Eastern Canada and the irrigation of dry land. A part of the reel was devoted to the preservation of forests in British Columbia and how important they are to our livelihood.

A short reel on lobster fishing in New Brunswick was next followed by a short depicting the interest in breeding and raising horses as pacers and trotters for the sulkie races in Canada and principally Prince Edward Island.

JUNIOR SYMPHONY

Twenty-five students from North Saanich High have purchased Junior Symphony tickets, and will attend the first concert to be presented on Sunday afternoon. Miss N. Jones will accompany the group.

With the money netted from the last dance the Senior Council has ordered blue singlets with white felt letters for the senior boys' basketball team. At the same time the council is busy planning a Valentine's dance for the middle of February.

Table tennis champions will emerge from the tournament that has just got under way. Some 50 participants in the four divisions of seniors and intermediates will battle on the tables to see who will be the champs for 1951.

Old-time dancing continues as twice a week the square dancing enthusiasts gather in the gym for an hour of fast-stepping polkas, reels and squares. All enter gaily into the fun and whoop and yell loudly along with the music.

Victoria College Plans to Present New Course in Descriptive Astronomy

What is space? Has it any limit? Is it curved? What is the life of our sun and those of other solar systems?

You don't have to be a scientist to ask these questions. But Victoria is fortunate in having many astronomers living here who can give the answers.

And in the course in descriptive astronomy offered as one of the Victoria College evening class courses this year, these noted astrophysicists are willing to explain the answers in terms understandable to the average man.

Everybody is interested in knowing something of our planet and its relation to other planets and stars of our universe.

The course, beginning January 17 at 8 p.m. at Victoria College, is designed to give the answers.

TEN LECTURES

The course will be divided into ten lectures. Five noted astronomers will each give two lectures. The series will include: A survey of astronomy, by Mrs. Phoebe Noble; the earth as an astronomical body, by Dr. Robert M. Petrie, the earth-moon system, by Andrew McKellar; the sun, by Dr. Kenneth O. Wright; the solar system, by Mrs. Noble, eclipses, by Dr. Wright; comets and meteors, by Dr. McKellar; stellar characteristics, by Dr. Joseph A. Pearce; double stars, by Dr. Petrie, and the galactic system, by Dr. Pearce.

The lectures are descriptive and non-mathematical. Each will be accompanied by lantern slides and followed by a question and answer period.

The five lecturers are fully qualified in the knowledge of their subjects and highly capable at presenting it in ordinary language for the interested layman.

Mrs. Noble, assistant professor of mathematics at Victoria College and president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, Victoria Branch, worked under the direction of Dr. Pearce at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here.

A graduate of the University of British Columbia with honors in mathematics, Mrs. Noble has been on the professorial staff of the college since 1946.

Astronomy has been a particular interest of the talented mathematician for many years.

TORONTO GRADUATE

Dr. Pearce, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Saanich and president of the Radial Velocity Commission of the International Astronomical Union, graduated from the University of Toronto with an M.A. degree in astronomy in 1930.

He did post-graduate work at the University of California and the Lick Observatory, receiving his doctorate from the University of California in 1930.

He joined the Dominion Observatory staff in 1934 and succeeded the late Dr. Harper as director in 1946.

Dr. Pearce's main study has been in the fields of stellar motion and double stars. His discoveries have been the basis for many new theories on the size and total mass of our galaxy and its period of rotation.

Dr. Petrie, also with the Dominion Observatory, graduated from the University of British Columbia and proceeded to graduate study at the University of Michigan, receiving his M.A. there in 1932.

From 1932 to 1935 he was astronomer at the McMath-Hulbert Observatory. He joined the staff of the observatory here in 1935.

He has specialized in the study of double stars, and the motions and brightness of the high-temperature stars.

Dr. McKellar graduated from the University of British Columbia in physics and received his doctorate in astronomy from the University of California in 1933.

With a fellowship from the National Research Council he continued his studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1936, he, too, joined the staff of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Dr. McKellar's chief interests have been in the science of stellar spectroscopy, with particular emphasis on the chemical components of stars' atmospheres.

Coming to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in 1936, Dr. Wright graduated from the University of Toronto and continued his study at the University of Michigan, receiving his doctorate there in 1940.

His work has been with spectro-chemical analysis of stellar atmospheres by detailed measures of their absorption line spectra.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our many friends for the kind expressions of sympathy, letters of condolence and for the beautiful floral tributes received. Our special thanks to Archdeacon Greene, Dr. E. J. Nash and the nursing staff, matron and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital.—The Burkeman family.

Mrs. A. Watson wishes to thank her many friends for their kindness and floral tributes extended to her during her recent bereavement. Special thanks to the entertainers of the Ruth Cooke Trio, the Pacific Branch of the Canadian Legion, the W.A. Dr. Stuart Keating and nurses and staff of the Victoria Maternity and Reverend J. L. W. Mellard.

PACKARD AND AUSTIN OWNERS

DO YOU KNOW THESE SIGNS OF WASTEFUL TIRE WEAR?

(a) Excessive wear in centre of tread, caused by over-inflation

(b) Scalloped appearance, caused by tire being out-of-balance (and possibly faulty brakes)

(c) Feathered edges, caused by faulty alignment of wheels

These conditions mean wasteful tire wear and lead to bleb nuts and defective steering

We recommend a check on wheel alignment and tire balance every 5,000 miles and we have the precision equipment to do it right.

SO TAKE A LOOK AT YOUR TIRES TODAY!

Just phone or call for an appointment

ROOM TO SPARE

LLANGIBBY CASTLE, Wales (CP). —The castle built here in the days of the Normans, once used as a stronghold by Cromwell, is to be pulled down. No one wants a home with 50 rooms and the owner can no longer afford its upkeep.

PLEASING "SENTENCE"

CHATHAM, England (CP). — A woman fined 5s (75 cents) for a motoring offence was also "sentenced" to take lunch with the magistrate and bench. Her fine was paid by the court to celebrate the opening of the new court house.

HOUSE No. 59-44

This unusually beautiful little home has just recently been erected. All too frequently houses built from stock plans are box-like and stereotyped in appearance and layout. But not so the designs of Architect L. E. Palmquist and Engineer Richard B. Pollman. This one-story gem was skilfully planned to give the small family a home with a gracious, individual exterior, with rooms arranged to offer the utmost in convenience.

The house contains 21,000 cubic feet without breezeway or garage. Complete architect-prepared blueprints and material lists are available for this home.

Are You Looking After Floors

Floors have been increasing in decorative importance for many years. Now-a-days they're not just something underfoot, never noticed except when they obviously require attention. They'll give you greater satisfaction and longer wear if you keep them in the best of condition at all times.

Concrete basement floors are subject to ruts and cracks, and as a result are not only hazardous but dirt catchers of the worst sort. Especially if you are planning to paint your concrete floor, these ridges and pitted places must be filled in. Shallow holes and depressions can be quickly repaired by a readymixed plastic patching material which dries in from two to 12 hours, depending upon the thickness. Clean the area first with a wire brush, then scratch in the patcher with a trowel, bring it to the level you want, and smooth it off.

For deeper cracks dig out all loose concrete with cold chisel or similar tool. Go over the area to be patched with a wire brush, then wash out the crack with water. Apply a bonding coat of one of the non-shrinking concrete floor-patching compounds. Place small amount in area to be patched. Thin down with a little water and scrub into area with old, stiff-bristle broom. Then fill with another layer of mixture and work it into the surface. Level and finish with steel trowel.

For a big lift to the dull-looking off-white cement floor, consider a rich burgundy paint job, a deep green, or a black brightened with red border.

Just one word of warning . . . when painting cement be certain that the paint you use is specially prepared for use on plaster and cement or you may find your work ruined by the burning chemical action of the lime in the mortar.

Linoleum floors generally require very little attention, if kept waxed and polished. However, should area become loosened, it should be re-cemented immediately. Use an adhesive recommended by the linoleum manufacturer. If the loose part is near a seam lift up the edge and wipe the area underneath with a cloth or brush to remove loose matter. Then cut a piece of cardboard with a saw-toothed edge and use it to trowel the paste into the floor. Replace the linoleum and weight down the spot evenly with a book or heavy object. Allow to dry for three or four hours.

If a blister or loose spot shows up in the centre of the floor, the linoleum should be cut around a design. Proceed as above.

Perhaps your wood floor has merely become worn in spots, due to the wearing off of varnish. There's a "mop-on" type of varnish specially prepared to touch up these spots.

More Uniforms to Be Seen Here As Forces Broaden Operations

MILITARY ACTIVITIES

By TREVOR COLLINS

Military uniforms are beginning to make their appearance in greater numbers in Victoria than at any time since the World War, and the numbers are expected to increase considerably in the next year.

The army has been feeding re- [illegible] into the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Work Point Barracks during the past few months, and if the trend continues about 1,200 troops will be stationed here in a very short time.

Gordon Head Camp has been opened up and two anti-aircraft batteries, previously stationed at Work Point, will be moved there to make room for more men.

MORE AIRMEN

Air Force uniforms will also be seen in ever-increasin numbers in a few months with the establishment of the new City of Victoria Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron.

Strength of the unit has been set at about 250 officers and men. The local Air Cadet squadron recently received authorization from Ottawa for a 50-per-cent increase.

With these two units up to strength, and backed by the R.C.A.F.'s marine squadron at Patricia Bay, about 450 airmen could be mustered in this area.

And the navy, too, apparently has plans to increase it's strength at H.M.C.S. Naden. A new $750,000 barracks block will be constructed there in the near future.

About 800 additional naval uniforms will appear in Victoria in a few months when Canada's three destroyers, now in Korean waters, return to their home port.

STIFF TRAINING

Technical men of No. 8 A.A. G.O.R. are in for some intensive instruction in drill, military law and varied duties of officers and N.C.O.'s in the next 11 weeks.

R.S.M. S. Mitchell, veteran sergeant-major of the famed P.P.C.L.I. and former R.S.M. at the army basic training centre at Portage La Prairie, Man., is going to take over the job.

There will be no further parades on Tuesday evenings while the special school is in progress. It will commence this Wednesday at the Bay Street Armoury.

Meanwhile, eight new members have recently joined the unit either by transfer or direct from civilian life. They are Lieut. T. D. Nelson, Lieut. W. W. Osbourne, Gnr. D. Elcoate, Gnr. D. T. Watson, Gnr. R. W. Hunt, Gnr. C. R. Hall, Gnr. Michael O'Reilly and Gnr J. V. Wilson.

Village Commission of Parksville Sworn In

Parksville's Village Commission changed from a three-man to a five-man group recently. Three new commissioners, elected by acclamation in December, were sworn in. Left to right are: Frederick Banks, elected December, 1949; Terrance Hocking, municipal clerk; new commissioners William Fulcher, James Kingsley and Frank Avis and James Washington, chairman of commission for past two years.

Urges Military Training

Unify Road Demands Holmes Tells Chamber

SOOKE, Jan. 13.—Unity among Island Chambers of Commerce to press for road needs was advocated by Major H. C. Holmes at a meeting of the Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce held in the Community Hall here.

Compulsory military training for every Canadian boy and girl at the age of 18 was also urged by Major Holmes.

A report on the recent executive meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, was given by W. Conder.

The meeting heard from H. A. Piggott, who said that he intended to open a marine service station in Sooke Harbor, adjacent to the Government wharf.

Plans for enlarging the existing fishermen's float were also discussed.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce President Fred Hawes will address the next meeting of the Sooke-Jordan River Chamber, at Jordan River, February 9.

Ladysmith Conservationists Endorse Protection Measures

LADYSMITH, Jan. 13. — The Ladysmith and District Fish and Game Protective Association intends to back fish protection measures before it is too late.

Two notices of motion, from the Alberni and Nanaimo clubs, dealing with conservation proposals will be dealt with at the next affiliated meeting at Nanaimo.

The Alberni notice of motion urged that a portion of the Stamp River, from a point above Stamp Falls to the junction of Ash River, and a portion of the Ash River from the Stamp River to the first trestle of the A.P.L. Railway be set aside for fly-fishing only.

Ladysmith Association members approved the proposed move, and several said that similar action in other parts of Canada had been taken too late.

The Nanaimo club seeks establishment of a right-of-way, so that the public may have access to all rivers and streams on Vancouver Island.

Ladysmith members, however, opposed a second notice of motion from Nanaimo, seeking permission for the use of rifle slugs in shotguns for hunting deer.

Student Group To Stage Play

PORT ALBERNI, Jan. 13.—Community Players of the Alberni district high school, in conjunction with Harold Lashley's orchestra, will present "A Ready-Made Family," a fast-peced, two-act comedy by Jay Tobias, January 25 and 26.

The cast includes: Douglas Riley, Doris Jowsey, Tom Johnstone, David Popoff, Mae Buckhum, Betty Lou Davis, Bernice Eskola, Kay Drinkwater, Frances Claiter and Gordon Jay.

The play will be directed by Stan Graves, who has been a director of the Community Players for five years. Staging of the play will be in the hands of Ralph Fell and Al Chambers, both of whom have studied stagecraft at the University of British Columbia. Business manager is O. C. Furnish.

Weather Forecasts

East Coast of Vancouver Island — Sunny intervals. A few snow flurries. Colder. Winds northwesterly, 15 m.p.h. High at Nanaimo, 40.

West Coast of Vancouver Island — Variable cloudiness. A few snow flurries. Colder. Winds northwesterly, 30 m.p.h., decreasing to 15 m.p.h. in afternoon. High at Estevan Point, 39.

Chemainus Briefs

Chamber Will Petition For Liquor Store

CHEMAINUS, Jan. 13.—Attorney-General Gordon Wismer will be petitioned by the Chemainus and District Chamber of Commerce asking that a liquor store be established here.

At [illegible] meeting, the members scoffed at a B.C. Liquor Board ruling that a liquor store here could not be operated economically.

The letter to the Attorney-General will point out that the district has a $3,500,000 annual payroll, and that more than 5,000 seamen come ashore each year, only to find that they have to hire a taxi and make a seven-mile trip to Ladysmith to obtain liquor legally.

Several members said they would be willing to handle such business on even a 1 per cent turnover.

S. Moyer, H. R. Moffat and D. H. King were accepted as new members.

Mr. Moat, representing The Chemainus and Cowichan Leader in Chemainus, will be guest speaker at a February 13 meeting.

MORALS SLIPPING

CHEMAINUS. — Today's youths and adults have no regard for the "sacredness" of public and private property, guest speaker Wilfred Chappell of Duncan told a Rotary meeting here.

He said current standards of moral and social obligations were slipping, thus aiding juvenile delinquency.

Other Duncan visitors at the meeting were Bruce Powell, B. Creighton, George Lawrence, T. Garner and J. Garner.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

CHEMAINUS.—Installation ceremonies for new officers of Chemainus No. 60 Knights of Pythias have been held.

Charles Savory is chancellor commander and Miss Maxine Elliott was installed as most excellent chief of May Temple, Pythian Sisters.

Installing officer for the Knights was S. Best, and for the Sisters, Mrs. B. Erickson.

STIFF TEST

CHEMAINUS. — The senior "B" basketball team will meet stiff competition tomorrow, when it plays Vancouver Y.M.C.A. Pirates.

The feature game is scheduled for 4 p.m., with preliminary games due to start two hours earlier at the Community Club.

Duncan Voters Responding to Petition For Repeal of Early-Closing By-Law

DUNCAN, Jan. 13.—A petition being circulated by William Vanderlip, operator of a service station at the intersection of Trunk Road and the Island Highway, is meeting with considerable response from Duncan voters.

Mr. Vanderlip's station is on land leased from the Indian Department. The lease requires him to observe city by-laws.

For some months the station was kept open after regular hours. The Garagemen's Association appealed to council to compel observance of the early-closing by-law as it concerns service stations and garages.

The city denied jurisdiction and passed the matter on to the superintendent of Indian affairs, who replied to council's letter and let conditions remain as they were.

FORCED TO CLOSE

A second delegation asked council to pursue the matter and enforce its own by-laws. Ottawa acted this time, and compelled the station to close. Council is in favor of the station staying open to provide service to the traveling public and citizens who want the late service, and Mr. Vanderlip now is circulating the petition to get the by-law repealed.

There are 1,019 names on the current voters' list, and one-fifth of these names are required to make a petition to council for a referendum.

Even without repeal of the by-law, by agreement with the garage operators and the city, the station could stay open, but three operators of garages are opposed to this arrangement.

Logging Death To Be Probed

CAMPBELL RIVER, Jan. 13.—An inquest will be held in Campbell River police court Monday by Dr. P. E. Lewis, coroner, to enquire into the death of Ross Bardell, 37, of Sayward, who died Friday night in Lourdes Hospital from injuries received while working at the Western Pacific Timber Co., Kelsey Bay.

Bardell, a faller, suffered severe chest injuries when a tree he was falling apparently split, part of it falling on him. Dr. N. B. Hall traveled to the scene of the accident in the R.C.M.P. plane, piloted by Sgt. Noel Beaumont.

After treatment, the injured man was brought to Lourdes Hospital in the Campbell River district ambulance, driven by William Alsdorf.

make it in less than 5 minutes!

Choose Colorful
JELL-O LIME FANCY
Dazzling . . . flavor-filled . . . and like all the desserts here, takes less than 5 minutes' actual preparation.
1 package Lime Jell-O (its flavor is pure fruit)
2 cups hot water (or peach syrup and water)
Drained canned peach halves
White cream cheese
Chopped nutmeats (optional)
Dissolve Jell-O in hot water (liquid need not be boiling, so Jell-O retains more flavor). Chill in tall mould. Unmould on serving plate. Surround with peach halves stuffed with cheese balls. (Cheese may be rolled in nuts). 6 servings.

or PINEAPPLE TUTTI FRUTTI
Chill Pineapple Jell-O in dessert glasses. Top with canned fruit cocktail and whipped cream. Thrilling, time-saving. But don't expect Jell-O results with any brand but JELL-O Jelly Powders. 6 servings.

or APPLE-SNOW JELL-O
A "pin-money" dessert that tastes like party best! Chill Raspberry Jell-O in dessert glasses. Add 1 tsp. lemon juice to 1 cup chilled apple sauce; fold into 1 stiffly-beaten egg white. Pile on Jell-O. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

or CHERRY-ORANGE PARFAIT
Chill Cherry Jell-O in shallow pan. When firm, break into bits with a fork . . . pile on Orange Jell-O in parfait glasses. Sparkling, flavorful — and one of the easiest desserts imaginable! Makes 8 to 10 servings that cost less than 2¢ each!

or STRAWBERRY TROPICANA
Chill Strawberry Jell-O in individual moulds. Unmould on drained canned pineapple slices. Use canned pineapple juice to replace part of water for making the Jell-O. A delightful way to vary any of Jell-O's seven famous "locked-in" flavors. 6 servings.

or ORANGE JELL-O RING
Add 1 cup (each) diced canned pears and seedless white grapes (or canned white cherries) to partially thickened Orange Jell-O. Chill in ring mould. Serve with cream cheese as salad, or whipped cream as dessert — enjoy that wonderful pure fruit Orange Jell-O flavor. 8 servings.
